THE CALIFORNIA MAIL CONTRACT—THE UTAH TROUBLES—SWINDLING IN THE WAR DEPARTMENT—MOVEMENTS OF MINISTER MCLANE, &C.

WASHINGTON, Wednesday, May 4.

Nothing is yet known as to the bids for the Pacific mail service, nor will there be any communication on the subject by the Post-office Department until the decision is made.

It is reportedt hat the delay in awarding the contract is owing to differences in the Nicaragua Canal Company.

The Government had not yet taken definite action in the troubles among the Federal officers in Utah, but will wait for further information from that Territory, especially as to the course of Judge CRADLEBAUGH. The indications are that Governor CUMMING will be sustained by the Administration, his conduct being regarded as wise and conciliatory. Such instructions will shortly be forwarded to Utah as will prevent further difficulties among the Federal Authorities. From all that can be ascertained, no trouble is apprehended from the MORMONS.

Witnesses from Tennessee, summoned by the United States, have appeared before the Grand Jury of this District, and it is said that a true bill has been found against certain Government Agents for false vouchers in the purchase of mules for the Army.

The New-Orleans Picayune, of Friday last, on information from Vera Cruz, says:

"Mr. MCLANE had, when the last steamer left, about abandoned the idea of going up to the Table Lands, for the present, and this both because of the distracted state of the country and the desire to be near the Government with which he is in official communication. He designed, therefore, to go on board one of our ships-of-war at Sacrificios, probably the Savannah, till her relief by the Saratoga. He proposed, or had proposed, (in what manner is not stated,) to put himself in communication with the leaders of the opposing party for the purpose of protecting the lives and property of American citizens, and in the name of humanity staying this unnatural war, or at least softening down some of its more formidable features."

The Postmaster-General, who left for New-York yesterday, is expected to return on Friday.

All commissions of special agents of the Post-office Department, issued prior to March 14 last, and not signed by the present Postmaster-General, have been revoked and their return to the Department requested.

WM. MCADOO, of Wisconsin, who has just been appointed Register of the Land Office at Superior, has been directed to proceed thither without delay, as a sale of 1,100,000 acres of public land will take place in that district on the 6th and 20th of June.

From Our Own Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, Saturday, April 30, 1850.

Through the courtesy of the War Department, I am permitted to furnish you the following interesting general orders, just issued:

WAR DEPARTMENT, ADJUTANT GENERAL'S OFFICE, WASHINGTON, April 22, 1859.

GENERAL ORDERS, No. 9.—I. At the General Court Martial which convened at Fort Moultrie, South Carolina, pursuant to "Special Orders," No. 41, of March 12, 1859, from the War Department, and of which Brevet Brigadier General SYLVESTER CHURCHILL, Colonel-Inspector General's Department, is president, was arraigned and tried Surgeon BERNARD M. BYRNE, Medical Department, U. S. Army, on the following charges and specifications, viz:

CHARGE I.

"Neglect of duty, to the prejudice of good order and military discipline."

Specification.—"In this: That Surgeon BERNARD M. BYRNE, Medical Department, U. S. Army, was stationed at Fort Moultrie, S. C., on or about the 9th day of September, 1858, and was then and there the only medical officer of the army, when a fatal and epidemic disease known as the yellow fever, prevailed among the troops at said post, whereof many died, nevertheless he, the said BYRNE, did then and there neglect and abandon his duty to attend the sick of said post, and did neglect his said duty from on or about the 9th day of September, 1858, until on or about the 11th day of October, 1858."

CHARGE II.

"Conduct unbecoming an officer and a gentleman."

Specification.—"In this: That Surgeon BERNARD M. BYRNE, Medical Department U. S. Army, did, at Fort Moultrie, South Carolina, on the 12th day of October, 1858, in an official letter of that date to his commanding officer Brevet Colonel J. L. GARDNER, U. S. Army, falsely state as follows: 'At the time I was taken ill, the health of the command'—meaning at Fort Moultrie, South Carolina—'was better than it had been at any time for for several months previously;' and as follows: 'There being no other sick man'—meaning other than one BRIGHT—'in hospital at the time;' whereas, in truth and in fact, at the time when the said BYRNE alleges that he was taken ill, viz: on the 8th of September, 1858, the health of the command at Fort Moultrie, South Carolina, was worse than it had been for several months previously—epidemic yellow fever was on the increase, and there were eight sick men in hospital at said post."

To which charges and specifications the accused pleaded "Not Guilty."

FINDINGS OF THE COURT.

The court, having weighed and considered the evidence adduced, finds the accused, Surgeon BERNARD M. BYRNE, Medical Department, U. S. Army, "not guilty" of the charges and specifications exhibited against him, and "does therefore acquit him."

II.—The proceedings of the General Court Martial in the foregoing case have been duly submitted to the Secretary of War, and the following are the orders thereon:

WAR DEPARTMENT, April 22, 1859.

The Department accepts the judgment of the court; but cannot let pass without comment, a case involving principles of such consequence. Doctor BYRNE withdrew from duty, for a month, during a fatal epidemic among the troops under his medical care. He defends it on the ground that he was himself sick, (of lumbago and sciatica,) and that his wife, during part of the time, was dangerously ill. Her illness could not absolve him from his public duties in such an emergency. His own state during the whole time is not satisfactorily shown—as he treated his own case. But the assistant surgeon testifies, confidently, that, for the last thirteen days of the time, (the period of Mrs. BYRNE's illness,) he was quite able to attend his hospital. This testimony is not sufficiently met by the defence. In the verdict of the court, the accused was entitled to the benefit of any reasonable doubt. But the Department, when neglect of the sick is imputed to the officer who has care of them, cannot be satisfied without clear proof to the contrary.

The Assistant-Surgeon erred in reporting Surgeon BYRNE sick, through courtesy, when he was stitsified he was not sick.

It was error in the ruling of the Court on the law of evidence, to reject testimony offered by the prosecution, in rebutting the defence of sickness, to show fear of contagion. As this is not matter of substantive charge, but is, in medical jurisprudence, a chief motive of feigned sickness, it was certainly admissible to disprove sickness. The Department does not mean to imply that the testimony, if admitted, would have varied the judgment of the Court. JOHN B. FLOYD, Secretary of War.

III. The General Court Martial, of which Brevet Brigadier-General SYLVESTER CHURCHILL is President, is dissolved.

IV. At the General Court Martial which convened at Fort Randall, Nebraska Territory, pursuant to "Special Orders," No. 84, of Aug. 24, 1858, from the head-quarters of the Department of the West, and of which Brevet-Major HENRY W. WESSELS, Captain 2d Infantry, is President, was arraigned and tried First Lieutenant CALEB SMITH, 2d Infantry, on the following charge and specifications, viz:

CHARGE.

"Conduct to the prejudice of good order and military discipline."

Specification 1.—"In this: That First Lieutenant CALEB SMITH, 2d Regiment of Infantry, while in temporary command of a battalion, consisting of companies A, and H, 2d Infantry, and a detachment of recruits en route to Fort Randall, Nebraska Territory, did take or seize by the coat First Sergeant Daniel Sloane, of company H, 2d Infantry, and did push, strike, or shake the said Sergeant Sloane, while on duty with his company, and while in execution of an order of his company commander, Second Lieutenant William F. Lee, 2d Infantry, then and there present. This at a point in Minnesota Territory, near Bonhomme Island, Missouri river, on or about the twenty-first day of July, eighteen hundred and fifty-eight."

Specification 2.—"In this: That First Lieutenant Caleb Smith, 2d Regiment of Infantry, while in temporary command of a battalion consisting of companies A, and H, 2d Infantry, and a detachment of recruits en route to Fort Randall, Nebraska Territory, did, in presence of his company take, or seize, by the coat, Second Lieutenant W. F. Lee, 2d Infantry, while the said Lieutenant Lee was on duty in command of company H, 2d Infantry, of said Battalion, and did endeavor, by violence, to remove the aforesaid Lieutenant W. F. Lee, from his position as commander of said company H. This at a point in Minnesota Territory, near Bonhomme Island, Missouri river, on or about the twenty-first day of July, eighteen hundred and fifty eight."

Specification 3.—"In this: That First Lieutenant CALEB SMITH, Second Infantry, while in temporary command of a battalion consisting of companies A and H, Second Regiment of Infantry, and a detachment of recruits en route to Fort Randall, Nebraska Territory, did draw, produce, or display a pistol, and when asked by Second Lieutenant W. F. LEE, Second Infantry, if said pistol was drawn upon him, did reply, 'Yes,' or words to that effect. This while the said Second Lieutenant W. F. LEE was on duty in command of aforesaid Company H, Second Infantry. All this at a point in Minnesota Territory, near Bonhomme Island, Missouri River, on or about the 21st day of July, 1858."

To which charge and specifications the accused pleaded "Not Guilty."

FINDINGS AND SENTENCE OF THE COURT.

The Court, after mature deliberation upon the testimony adduced, finds the accused "guilty" of the charge and specifications preferred against him, and does, therefore, sentence him, the said First Lieutenant CALEB SMITH, of the 2d Regiment of Infantry, "To be dismissed the service."

V. In conformity with the 65th Article of War, the proceedings of the General Court Martial in the foregoing case have been transmitted to the Secretary of War, and by him laid before the President of the United States. The following are the orders thereon:

WAR DEPARTMENT, April 13, 1859.

The proceedings of the Court, in the case of Lieutenant CALEB SMITH, having been submitted to the PRESIDENT, he has seen cause, while he confirms them, to remit the sentence. The reasons for this clemency have reference to the provocation of disrespect and insubordination which the prisoner yielded to; but they do not, in any manner, justify his resort to violent demonstrations to maintain an authority, exercised without discretion, when a dignity of command that might have been expected in the lowest grade of office was amply sufficient for the occasion. Lieutenant SMITH retains his commission, and it will be well if the lesson he has received shall stimulate him to a more efficient and elevated practice of the authority which it confers.

JOHN B. FLOYD, Secretary of War.

VI.—The General Court Martial of which Brevet-Major H. W. WESSELS is President, is hereby dissolved.

By order of the Secretary of War:

S. COOPER, Adjutant-General.

Secretary FLOYD has quite recovered, and is again in daily attendance at the Department. Q.

WASHINGTON, Tuesday, May 3.

The following interesting letter was received yesterday by the Interior Department. It will be perceibed that no mention is made of Capt. FORD's encounter with the Indians, although the writer was with Capt. VAN DORN about the time he is respresented to have parted with FORD's company:

Long. 99° 4' 12", Lat. 34° 35' 14", }
OTTER CREEK, Friday, April 8, 1859. }

SIR: I have to report that on the 14th March I left Fort Arbuckle for this place. Major EMORY kindly favored me, as far as Beaver Creek, about sixty miles, with an escort of a Sergeant and fifteen men from that point to this. We accomplished our march in safety. Our party consisted of ten persons—five Delawares and five white men. To morrow we shall start for 100th meridian, distant fifty-three miles. Major VAN DORN has furnished me an escort of a Sergeant and fifteen men, who are to return to this place by the 25th inst., the date when he contemplates a movement with his whole cavalry command to the north fork of the Canadian. Major VAN DORN's column will be on the west of our line of operations, and will measurably cover us, and we hope to establish the 100th meridian in comparative safety.

A dispute has arisen between Texas and the Choctaws as to what is the true or main Red River. We shall take the greatest care in establishing this line so as to stand the strictest scrutiny.

Yours respectfully,

D. H. COOPER.

This letter was accompanied by a letter from Gen. RECTOR under date of 23d April, in which no mention is made of Capt. FORD's defeat.

The line now being run by Mr. COOPER and party is under the direction of the Indian Bureau. The Indians, owning this country, having leased all that portion lying between the 98th and 100th meridian to the Federal Government, and the Interior Department design to establish upon it reserves for the location of the Texas and other wild Indians. The 100th meridian is the line between Texas and the leased Territory. Another party is in the field marking the boundary between Texas and New-Mexico, and connect with first at a point of intersection on the 100th meridian. Q.

National Medical Convention.

SECOND DAY.

LOUISVILLE, Wednesday, May 4th.

Four essays, sent in to compete for the annual prize, were read, and all rejected. Dr. JOSEPH JONES, of Augusta, Ga., read a paper on the "Chemical Analysis of the Fluids and Secretions of the Body, in Cases of Malarious Diseases." It was subsequently proposed to refer this paper to the Prize Committee for the annual prize, but Dr. JONES objected. All the proceedings thus far have been harmonious and exceedingly interesting in a scientific point of view.

The Medical Convention reassembled this afternoon.

Dr. COMAGYS offered a resolution, which was adopted, to appoint a Committee of five to confer with the Committee of Medical Teachers, and to report at the next annual meeting.

Resolutions from the New-Jersey Medical Society, asking the establishment of a Board of Censors from each Supreme Court Judicial District, to grant diplomas to all proper members of the Association, was referred to a Committee of Conference.

Resolutions were passed instructing the same Committee to confer with the State Medical Societies to procure uniform action throughout the profession, by carrying into effect the standard of preliminary education adopted by this association at its organization in 1847.

Dr. SAYER, of New-York, offered a resolution that each State Medical Society are requested to appoint annually two delegates for each State College to attend all examinations of delegates for graduation; that each College permit such candidates to participate in the examination and vote on the qualification of such candidates. Referred to the Committee on Conference.

Dr. JONES read a paper, which was referred to the Committee on Prize Essays.

Dr. BENJAMIN W. DUDLEY was unanimously admitted a permanent member.

Adjourned till to-morrow.

The Canadian Parliament, &c.

TORONTO, C. W., Wednesday, May 4.

The Government last night were sustained by the Legislative Council, the supplies being finally passed. It is expected that Parliament will adjourn to-day.

WM. SMITH O'BRIEN arrived here last night, and was met at the steamer by a large number of people, who, with a band of music, escorted him to the Rossin House. To-day addresses were presented by the St. Patrick's Association and other bodies.

TORONTO, Wednesday, May 4—P. M.

Parliament was prorogued at 4 P. M. to-day. The following is a synopsis of the Governor-General's speech:

HONORABLE GENTLEMEN OF THE COUNCIL AND ASSEMBLY: I am glad to release you earlier than usual, and congratulate you upon having accomplished so much useful work. I have laid before you the answer of Her Majesty's Secretary of State, expressing her satisfaction at the ultimate decision in regard to the seat of Government. You have made provision for commuting the feudal right in Lower Canada, and have placed additional restraint on the powers of municipalities to borrow, whilst you have taken steps for gradually enforcing the fulfillment of local obligations already incurred. In my opinion nothing could be more injurious to the credit of the Province than the impression that such obligations could be impaired or evaded. You have amended the tariff, and whilst I regret the necessity for increasing some duties on imports, I hope the principle on which the duties are imposed will alleviate their pressure. It is satisfactory to see that the income of the Province for the first quarter of the current year shows signs of the revival of trade as well as an increase in our resources. You have invited her Majesty, or any member of the Royal family, to visit British North America, and I believe that in no portion of her Majesty's broad dominions would such a visit be hailed with more affectionate and genuine loyalty. With an earnest prayer that Providence may bless us with an abundant harvest and restored prosperity, I now terminate this session.

Pennsylvania Politics.

ALTOONA, Pa., Wednesday, May 4.

The State Central Committee of the States Rights Democracy is in session here, JOHN W. FORNEY, Chairman, for a full and free interchange of sentiment. There is much enthusiasm and determination to press forward the movement.

They have resolved that it is inexpedient to nominate a State ticket; proclaim unalterable opposition to the doctrine of Congressional intervention, as advocated by the Republicans for the prohibition of Slavery in the Territories, or as advocated by the Administration Democrats for the protection of Slavery, and recommend the friends of popular sovereignty to vote for no candidates at future elections who refuse to stand clearly upon the doctrine which recognizes the principle that the people of the Territory shall form and regulate their own domestic institutions in their own way. They also recommend to the States Rights Democracy to demand at all times the adoption of the principles promulgated by the Harrisburgh Convention, which were enumerated in the Cincinnati platform and Mr. BUCHANAN's letter of acceptance.

The National Typographical Convention.

BOSTON, Wednesday, May 4.

At the session of the National Typographical Convention this forenoon, Nashville, Tenn., was elected as the place for holding the next annual Convention. The New-York Printer was recommended as the organ of the craft throughout the Union; and a resolution recommending the subordinate Unions to consider the feasibility of abolishing Sunday labor was offered by Mr. MCCOUBREY, of Grand Rapids, and discussed at length. Pending action on it the Convention adjourned.

The delegates will visit Deer Island this afternoon by invitation of the city authorities.

The Fugitive Slave Case in Zanesville.

ZANESVILLE, Ohio, Wednesday, May 4.

JACKSON, the fugitive slave, was this morning delivered to his master, to be taken back to Virginia. A large crowd followed the parties to the Railroad dépôt, but there was no attempt at a rescue.

Funeral of Samuel Yeager.

EASTON, Pa., Wednesday, May 4.

The funeral of SAMUEL YEAGER took place this afternoon. St. John's Church, where the services were held, was filled, and many were unable to get seats. The church was draped in black, the pulpit, chandeliers and pillars being covered with it. The sermon was delivered by the Rev. Mr. GREENWALD, who took for his text the 20th verse of the 71st Psalm. It was an earnest and appropriate discourse. After the services, the remains were followed by the mourners and a vast number of sorrowing citizens. The streets through which the procession passed were crowded.

Arrival of the Overland California Mail.

THREE DAYS' LATER ADVICES—ANOTHER DESPERATE FIGHT WITH THE INDIANS ON THE COLORADO.

ST. LOUIS, Tuesday, May 3.

The California Overland Mail arrived here this afternoon, bringing San Francisco dates of the 11th of April. The news is unimportant. The markets were unchanged. The only additional arrival out from the Atlantic States, is that of the ship John Sidney, from New-York. Steamship Forward, from Liverpool, had arrived at San Francisco, with the intention it was supposed, of being put on the route between San Francisco and Vancouver's Island.

This mail brings us advices of another terrible conflict on the Colorado between the Indians and a party of forty men under Mr. BISHOP, who were on the way to join Lieutenant BEALE'S surveying expedition. This party, which left Fort Tejon some time previously, were proceeding along, as they supposed, in perfect security, having distributed considerable presents to the Indians on the route, and received their permission to pass through the country. But on arriving at the crossing of the Colorado, they were on the 20th of March suddenly attacked by a party of some six or seven hundred Indians of the Mojave, Yuma and Pah Ute Indians.

A desperate fight ensued, which lasted for three hours, during which a large number of the Indians were killed.

Mr. BISHOP had retreated toward Fort Tejon, and sent thither to Colonel HOFFMAN for assistance. The Colonel was expected to reach the Mojave villages about April 16, when he would make an attack upon them, for the purpose of chastising them.

Private dispatches state that the ship Manilon, which has been reported burnt at sea, had arrived at San Francisco. The name was doubtless confounded with that of the British ship Meroo, whose burning has been reported.

Non-Arrival of the Niagara.

SACKVILLE, N. B., Wednesday, May 4—9:30 P. M.

We have reliable information from Halifax that there are yet no signs of the R. M. steamship Niagara, now in her twelfth day from Liverpool, and fully due. The weather there is fine, with a light south easterly wind.

Later from Havana.

NEW-ORLEANS, Wednesday, May 4.

The Steamship Quaker City is below, with Havana dates of the 2d inst. The news is unimportant.

No filibusters had been seen.

Sugar was dull. Stock, 296,000 boxes. Exchange on New-York was 1 per cent. premium, and on London 13⅜ per cent.

Matters at the Norfolk Navy-Yard.

NORFOLK, Wednesday, May 4.

The U. S. steamer Water Witch arrived here to-day.

The Prussian frigate Geffeon, Captain DONNAR, has also arrived here, twenty-one days from Vera Cruz. The passage was a very stormy one. She will remain here eight or ten days, and then proceed on a cruise. All on board of her are well.

The launch of the steamer Richmond has been postponed.

Fire in Richmond, Va.

RICHMOND, Wednesday, May 4.

A destructive fire occurred this morning, on Main-street, between Sixth and Eighth streets. Several large shops, a planing-mill, &c., with their contents, were destroyed. The principal sufferers are Messrs. SIMS & TURNER, S. Y. SANDRUM, and MERCER & HILL. The loss is upwards of $50,000, and there is very little insurance.

Case of False Pretences at the Charlestown Navy-yard.

BOSTON, Wednesday, May 4.

J. A. BARTLETT, formerly a lawyer of New-York, and for three years past confidential clerk to Commodore STRINGHAM, at Charlestown Navy-yard, has suddenly left these parts, after cheating numerous tradesmen by using the name of the Commodore.

Organization of the Connecticut Legislature

HARTFORD, Wednesday, May 4.

OLIVER H. PERRY, Republican, was to-day elected Speaker of the House of Representatives by a vote of 117 out of 228. Several members were absent. W. W. STONE and D. E. HOLCOMB, Republicans, were elected Clerks. The Senate was also organized by the election of Republican officers.

Philadelphia City Election.

PHILADELPHIA, Wednesday, May 4.

The People's Ticket was elected yesterday, by an average majority of 2,500 votes. The same party have a majority in both branches of the City Councils.

Sailing of the Arabia.

BOSTON, Wednesday, May 4.

The R. M. steamship Arabia, sailed at noon, with 137 passengers for Liverpool and seven for Halifax and $166,000 in specie.

Southern Ocean Steamer Movements.

SAVANNAH, Wednesday, May 4.

The screw-steamship Huntsville arrived at her wharf at 5 o'clock P. M., the 3d inst.

The Death of Bishop Doane, and the Alumni of Burlington College.

A meeting of the Alumni of Burlington College was held in the College Library, on Saturday, 30th ultimo, immediately after the funeral of the Bishop of New-Jersey. GEORGE M. MILLER, Esq. was called to the Chair, and Rev. HOBART CHETWOOD was chosen Secretary.

On motion of C. WILLING LITTELL, Esq., the following resolutions were unanimously adopted:

Resolved, That as no words of ours can express the emotion occasioned by this visitation of our Heavenly Father, "Who in His wisdom has seen fit to visit us with trouble, and to bring distress upon us," we, the Alumni of Burlington College, endeavor by our action to give expression to our grief for the loss of him, who by the brilliancy and cultivation of his intellect, the extent of his learning, the refinement of his taste, the variety of his accomplishments, the purity, strength and elevation of his character, and the warmth and geniality of his heart, beautifully adorned every relation of life, and united in himself those ties which bound us so strongly to him, as the founder of our College, our honored President, our revered Bishop, and our long and much loved friend.

Resolved, That a Committee, consisting of the Chairman and Secretary of this meeting, with one member of each class, be constituted, with authority to receive contributions, and to adopt measures necessary to the erection of a monument appropriate to the memory of Bishop DOANE.

Resolved, That the present and former students of the College, the graduates, with the present and former pupils of St. Mary's Hall, are hereby invited to unite with us in the erection of this memorial.

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be transmitted by the Secretary to the family of the Bishop, and to the Board of Trustees, with the request that they be entered upon the records of the College; and the proceedings of this meeting be published in the principal ecclesiastical and secular newspapers of New-York, Newark and Philadelphia.

In accordance with the second resolution, the following gentlemen were appointed members of the Committee, and empowered to receive contributions for the erection of the monument:

GEORGE M. MILLER, New-York.
The Rev. HOBART CHETWOOD, Elizabeth, N. J.
The Rev. WILLIAM T. JOHNSON, Baltimore.
C. WILLING LITTELL, Philadelphia.
JEREMIAH C. GARTNWAITE, Jr., Newark, N. J.
HENRY O. CLAGGETT, Leesburg, Va.
The Rev. GEORGE S. LEWIS, Burlington, N. J.
JAMES O. WATSON, Portsmouth, N. H.
HENRY W. NELSON, Boston.
WILLIAM B. GIFFEN, New-Orleans.

THE CALIFORNIA GAMBLERS GETTING THE UPPER HAND AGAIN.—The San Francisco Evening Bulletin intimates that the gambling fraternity in California are recovering some of the power of which the energetic action of the Vigilance Committee once deprived them. The following sharp comments of the Bulletin are suggestive:

"In a California Legislature—a Democratic Legislature—the wishes of the people would seem to be nothing. Gamblers' influence and gamblers' money are of most importance. The blacklegs ask that the law against gambling be changed; the Legislature kindly accedes to the request. If murderers, or thieves, or any other class of criminals, had but the necessary means, they could, undoubtedly, send to Sacramento also, and have obnoxious statutes altered to suit their notions. Why not? There is as much popular opposition to gambling as there is to stealing. Indeed, both are essentially the same thing, after all. Nobody but the gamblers are asking for a change in the present law. If money then enables the blacklegs to control the legislation of the State, why would not money enable thieves to do it?"

KENTUCKY POLITICS.

Col. Humphrey Marshall's Re-nomination for Congress—His Character, Past Record, and Present Position.

Correspondence of the New-York Times.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., April 27, 1859.

You have often heard of our valorous "South American," and now champion of the Southern "Opposition," the Hon. HUMPHREY MARSHALL, and you know that his once "Know-Nothing," but now "new party" friends have again nominated him to represent the Seventh Congressional, the "Gibraltar" District of Kentucky, in the Lower House of Congress. Despite what many of his constituents call his ultra Americanism, which has hitherto repelled them from supporting him, his old friends claim that he is the best and strongest man of the Opposition in all these parts, and will be elected, without doubt, by a rousing majority, standing as he does upon the platform of our "new party," whose existenee was inaugurated in Louisville, on the 22d of last February.

Colonel MARSHALL'S especial friends will have it that he is about the greatest man that ever did live, a more than WEBSTER in intellect and statesmanship indeed a sort of huge, ponderous political demi-god whom everybody must worship and obey, or else be crushed beneath his elephantine tread, and whose like, when translated to another world and theatre more befitting his gigantic and infinite powers, it will never be vouchsafed us poor mortals to look upon again. However, Sir, without stretching or joking he is a politician—a statesman, if you please—of superior talents, and, with all his faults and short-comings, has been in many respects an eminent, useful, liberal-minded National Representative. The Democracy, however united they may be in view of the spoils, are not likely to pit against the Colonel any one so able and so deserving, or to defeat him without a most severe struggle. Indeed, despite his former Know-Nothingism, I should not be surprised to see him elected.

HUMPHREY MARSHALL represented us in the Thirty-first, Thirty-second, Thirty-fourth and Thirty-fifth Congress. His record, in general, appears to me quite creditable. He, like some of the most eminent Democrats of past and present times, has always been for a liberal system of Internal improvements, American and National in its scope and application; and for a Tariff adequate to all the needs of our General Government, and to all the incidental protection required by American labor in all its branches, in order to compete with foreign labor and the selfish policy of foreign capitalists and foreign nations. Last session, you are aware, he voted against continuing in force the Treasury Note Bill, or authorizing a new loan, without, at the same time, revising the Tariff of 1857, with a view to increasing the receipts from Customs and affording, incidentally, more protection to American industry. He repeatedly voted with Republicans and some Democrats for a revision with that double view. We also find from the records of the Thirty-fifth Congress that Mr. MARSHALL, from first to last, and after the President's veto, voted to donate public lands to the several States, for the purpose of encouraging and improving Agricultural and the Mechanic Arts. And, to show again his general freedom from sectional bias, when a proposition is presented to him from a Southern or Northern man, his coöperation with the Republicans under the lead of Mr. GROW, during the closing scenes of the last Congress, may be noted. He insisted with them and a majority of the Americans and Anti-Lecompton Democrats, besides some twenty of the Democratic Regulars, "in good standing," (among them MASON and TALBOT, of Kentucky,) against the Senate's postage-raising clause, tacked to the Post-office Appropriation bill.

As to the everlasting Slavery question, with reference to the African Slave-trade, and in its bearing upon "popular sovereignty" in Kansas, Col. MARSHALL'S course has been worthy of all praise. He has always been for sustaining and enforcing our laws which prohibit the foreign Slave traffic. Moreover, Southerner as he is, he has stood up for the rights of the American people in the devoted Territory of Kansas, and demanded that they shall be recognized and respected by the Congress of the United States. He has in fact supported the doctrine that the people of every Territory should be left alone to settle every question for themselves, and therefore to carry out their will about Slavery, whether for or against its admission from the States. You know, Sir, he opposed the Lecompton iniquity and nefarious enormity out and out. With five Americans and twenty-two Democrats he voted for the Crittenden-Montgomery substitute. He fought for it to the last. He voted against the English proposition for a Committee of Conference, and against the English bribe and dodge. He was for kicking "Lecompton" out of Congress, for having nothing to do with the unclean thing, for recognizing directly and immediately, without the slightest qualification or compromise, the rights of the people of Kansas to admission into the Union under a Constitution and Government of their own. We are much indebted to him and UNDERWOOD, from Kentucky, to DAVIS, RICAUD and HARRIS, from Maryland, and BLAIR, from Missouri, and to CRITTENDEN and BELL, of the Senate, for whatever of peace and quiet we now have in or about Kansas. If no considerable portion of any party out of Kansas shall hereafter seek to interfere in the disposition of the Slavery question in Kansas—as is the declared opinion of Col. MARSHALL—it may be owing to the continued presence of such men as he in the halls of Congress.

I know of nothing in Mr. MARSHALL'S present position that would indicate his determination to depart hereafter from the general character and spirit of his past record, in the event of his reëlection, unless it might be on the mooted questions about the "Dred Scott Decision," "Squatter-Sovereignty," "Congressional Intervention," or the Lord knows what. Immense importance is attached to them, as if they were big with the destinies of "the world and the rest of mankind." They have been the burden and the incubus of the Kentucky Press for a year or more,—some of the Oppositionists, with Buchaneer's and Guthriemen on one side, and the Douglasites on the other, all struggling as if possessed with the notion that the fate of our nation hung upon the sovereignty of either niggerism or squatterism in the Territories. Now, the truth is,—Is it not, Sir?—that whatever Congress may do, or not do, about this or any other matter, this great nation of ours, our Union of States for many great domestic and national purposes, will continue unimpaired in its integrity and efficiency, its power and influence, at home and abroad, for all time to come.

What if Col. MARSHALL does think that, as an abstract proposition, Congress is bound to protect and enforce the proprietary rights of every slaveholder in the territory, if the settlers refuse to do it, and if the Courts and the Executive, under the Federal laws already existing, can't do it? What would—what could Congress effect then? Would he, under any circumstances, in view of his past record and his experience, vote for a special Congressional code, for the protection and establishment of slaveholding? Would he, in any event, attempt to control the legally expressed will of the organized settlers, upon the subject of Slavery, by further legislation of Congress? I much doubt it. He has proved himself too much a man of the people for that. He knows that if the existing laws of the United States are not adequate to the protection of every citizen's constitutional rights of property in a territory, and of every slaveholder's rights, too, as defined in the "Dred Scott Decision," no more laws can be passed at Washington which will be adequate thereto. If slaves are property, like anything else, they are already as much protected as they can be by the existing Federal laws, which provide alike and equally for the protection of all kinds of property. Any special legislation by Congress, discriminating in favor of property in slaves, would be uncalled for and useless—it would only revive the Slavery agitation a thousand fold without benefitting anybody a particle. Col. MARSHALL'S practical intelligence teaches him this; he well knows it; and, I believe, he would act accordingly, and do all he could to prevent such a cause of agitation. As he said on the floor of Congress, the 19th of January last—

"I do not think there is any necessity for renewed agitation of questions affecting Slavery. The existing statutes of the law and legislation satisfies me. Looking at our present condition, and our capacity for future expansion, I respectfully submit there is no excuse for the renewal of Slavery agitation. The country needs no legislation about Slavery. The power of Congress needs no assertion on this distracting theme, because the guarantees of existing law are already applied to every foot of ground within the present boundaries of the Union."

GEN. HENNINGSEN'S NEW ENTERPRISE.—Gen. HENNINGSEN has addressed the following letter to the Augusta (Ga.) Constitutionalist:

SIR: Allow me, through your paper, to make public, that the Hon. L. D. EVANS, self and friends, have found it necessary to withdraw from the "Arizona, Mexican and Central American Emigration and Colonization Association," together with most of its members and agents.

Another association, with similar objects, on the same terms and conditions, comprising nearly all the same persons connected with the former, has been formed under the name of "Henningsen's Arizona Emigration Association." It is proceeding uninterruptedly with its emigration projects. Emigrants will rendezvous at Powder Horn during the month of July, and leave Georgia in the beginning of that month. I am, Sir, your obedient servant,

C. F. HENNINGSEN.

STATE OF THE CITY.

Rambles 'Round Town with an Eye to a Clean Spot.

A Cruise Through the Tenth, Thirteenth and Seventeenth Wards—Condition of the Streets—Reasons Enough for a Large Mortality—A Glance at the Minor Industries, &c., &c.

When there is no wind stirring, Broadway is a clean street; but if there is another street in this town, about which one could lay his hand over his watch-pocket in his vest, and say "itjis clean," it would gratify us to hear said street named. A gilded line should mark its course on the map hereafter, and landlords who have houses to let on it, should fix their own rent and never fear lacking a tenant.

Armed with all candor, we carefully explored the northeastern section of the City yesterday—the part north of Grand street and east of Fourth-avenue—but a clean spot we did not find except only where iron railings, or something still more exclusive, fenced off the City Authorities or usurpers from any control over or mismanagement of it. It is a very disgusting thought that there is within our proud Municipality one spot dirtier than all others. As we found none, however, so filthy but that by going a block or two further, one still more offensive turned up, it is to be presumed that the dirtiest spot is still unannounced. Indeed our ramble should have taken us through that part of the City that is in best condition, since the Tenth and the Thirteenth are two out of the only three Wards which there is any existing contract to clean.

Grand-street is in tolerable order. Its flat granite pavement secures that, and no thanks to contractors. For as the dirt is ground to powder under the wheels of thousands of carts and omnibuses, and the east wind has a long reach at it, the middle of the street would be visible, even if MORTON were to remain City Inspector for ten years longer. As the gutters are not badly choked, however, it is probable that somebody has within a month passed a gang of men through it and taken pay for the job. In Mangin-street, a most extraordinary vision greeted the eyes—a herald with a watering pot preceding six men with birch brooms and two with hoes, who piled the dirt into hillocks, that were not quite all scattered again by the cart wheels that delighted to pass through and flatten them. Ahead of the sweepers, the cobble-stones were scarcely visible; behind them, it was only courtesy to call it clean. Any lady with a gown on that she respected, would gather it carefully about her ankles as she crossed. Manhattan-place was one long heap of garbage—quite relieved by the contents of horse stables on the opposite side of the street. Goerck-street had evidently been swept lately, but the heaps of dirt had not been removed. In Lewis-street the water stands still in the gutters. Cannon-street looked like one long heap, the cobble-stones occasionally showing through, where the wind has had a chance at it. Columbia-street, ditto. The ash-carts may have visited Sheriff-street within a week, but there are no evidences of that fact left in the neighborhood. Old sleds, smashed carts and coal wagons flank each sidewalk, and the wheels that stand where the gutter originally was, were some of them buried nearly to the hub. Dogs with all manner of deformities, the result of accident and tough times at home, abounded here. Meanwhile the whole air resounded with the clangor of tin-trumpets announcing shad, that were fresh once, for sale. There is a large public school-house near the corner of Sheriff and Stanton streets. The hundreds of children that spend six hours a-day inside of it breathe an atmosphere redolent of decaying vegetables, that on a hot day is nauseous to the senses and must always reek with impalpable and insensible poison. Rivington-street and Stanton in the Thirteenth Ward—one of the three Wards kept clean by contract—are rank with outrageous odors, the gutters are full of stagnant, green water, unless where they are completely choked up. The late rains could scarcely have passed off by them to the sewers. Moistening the garbage, which lies on paved streets, they have been making the miasm that has predisposed all who live in the vicinity to intermittents and to nervous prostration.

Our folks are fond of music. A band of seven stalwart men stopped as we were walking up Stanton-street, just abreast the highest heap of filth, and with five brass pieces and two flageolets, began playing a plaintive German air. At the first note all the windows and the cellar-doors were populous with women and squalid, sickly babies. The street children, to the number of 50 at least were collected, before the trombone had sounded out the first stave, and each little miss fell straight to dancing. Weazened little nurses with stunted babies in their arms tripped the light fantastic toe without a shoe on. A flaming head of very knotted hair, surmounting a diminutive specimen of humanity not over five years old, dashed in and out of the circle that the players made, as if something had suddenly touched it off. The flaming head belonged to a dumpy pair of corduroy pants, through the broad rents of which an inner garment of the same color protruded fluttering gaily to the breeze. Finally, the arm of a greasy jacket that surmounted the corduroys sallying forth encircled the waist of a dumpy Sallie, and the two went waltzing off in great harmony till both tumbled headlong into a heap whereof the last layer was richest in eggshells and refuse cabbage leaves. A tiny girl of sunny curls and a very dirty face, holding by the tail of her "grandpop's" coat, danced so hard as twice to put out the old man's match, that he drew across the grinded palm of his hand to light his pipe with. Three times the women out of the upper windows cast down coppers which the oboe-player fished out of the ashes, and perhaps the lager bier saloon opposite may have added still more liberally to the reward of the troupe. At any rate, seemingly well satisfied, they pushed on to the next block, the half hundred dancers cheering lustily for the treat. Happy little wretches, muddy, dusty and begrimed, scarcely one in the lot carried a rose under the dirt on its cheek. The youngest of them knew the Dispensary doctor, and probably one-third of the whole will go into the mortality list before another Christmas.

The "dirt-cart" is supposed to perambulate daily every part of the City, without any reference to the question whether anybody has the contract for street-cleaning. It collects the ashes and garbage set out in pans, pails and boxes in anticipation of the hour of its arrival, while the sweeps and their cart come only once a month, or—not at all. The sweepings proper are worth 25 cents a load to the contractor at the foot of Stanton-street; the dirt-man's gathering are worth nothing, and though they go first to the Stanton-street pier, it is only to be dumped into sloops that transport them to LOWERY'S filling at Sixteenth-street. Quite a business just now is made of this sweepings' item, though not one-tenth what it ought to be. The carts dump their contents upon the boats' decks, which, when filled, (and each boat takes from 25 to 75 loads for a cargo,) they transport to Flushing and other

FROM CANADA.

Extraordinary Collision between the two Houses of Parliament—The Upper House Refusing the Supplies—Report of the Committee on Trade and Commerce.

Correspondence of the New-York Times.

TORONTO, Saturday, April 30, 1859.

A very singular event in the Legislative history of Canada has just happened, which, as it is of interest from various points of view, I must narrate fully.

The Seat of Government question has long been one of great difficulty. The Capital has been moving, of late years, every few sessions, from one city to another, and there was an understanding—nay, more, a pledge—on the part of the Government that, when last it was moved from Quebec to Toronto, it should move down again after a four years' term. This has now expired, and the Legislative Assembly has determined by a very large majority to carry out the understanding honestly. Meanwhile, application has been made to Her Majesty the Queen to choose a permanent seat of Government for the Province. She accepted the task, selected Ottawa, and her decision has been ratified by both branches of the Legislature, and by a majority of the representatives of both Eastern and Western Canada. The Upper House think this should put an end to the perambulating system at once; they see no necessity for going to Quebec for a term; they advise the rapid completion of the buildings at Ottawa, and a removal thither as soon as possible. The Government—who, of course, cannot please both Houses when they are divided in opinion—do not in any way conceal their intention of removing. But they have not put into the estimates of expense, to be voted by Parliament, any item for the removal. The Lower House passed the estimates and the Bill of Supply founded upon them; some of the leaders of opposition merely objecting to the course of the Government in not asking for money which yet they intended to spend, and the ministers replying that it was the prerogative of the Crown to call Parliament where it pleased, and that it looked to the Houses to make good, afterwards, the expenses incidental to the exercise of this prerogative. The Upper House has, however, acted differently. There, when the Hon. Mr. VAN KOUGHNET, the leader, moved the second reading of the Supply bill, the Hon. Mr. DE BLAQUIERE moved in amendment, seconded by the Hon. Mr. ALLEN "that the Legislative Council feels itself called upon to declare and resolve, in defence of its undoubted and unquestionable rights, as a coördinate and co-equal branch of the Legislature, and as the only means of preserving its independence, that it will not take the question of supply into consideration, until satisfied that the Executive Government will not incur any expense whatever for the removal of the Seat of Government to Quebec without first submitting the estimate for the same for the consideration of the Legislative Council." Hereupon a long debate arose, which continued until one o'clock this morning, being the most prolonged which has taken place this session in the respectable "Lord's" House. Finally the amendment was carried. The Speaker, here Mr. BELLEAU, then rose and said: "In consequence of this resolution, the House will not take the Supply bill into consideration now." The House then adjourned.

Many of the members of the Lower House, especially Lower Canadians, are indignant. They say they will pass a vote of credit, and thus enable the Government to go on. All admit, however, that this collision between the two Houses is a serious matter, and that the course of the Upper House is almost revolutionary. Imagine the House of Lords, in England, throwing out the Supply bill! The thing was never attempted here but once, just before the rebellion of '37. What the result will be this time nobody knows, yet. The Government were asked to-day, by Mr. DRUMMOND, what they intendec to do. Mr. J. A. MACDONALD replied they had no official intimation of the course taken by the Upper Housh. It is thought that, as the Supply bill is not rejected, and its consideration merely deferred, the Government will be able to bring up a few absent members of the Upper House enough to reverse the vote, which was only carried by 23 against 20.

The Committee on Trade and Commerce—the Hon. W. H. MERRITT, Chairman—have agreed to a report of exceeding interest to us and to those of your merchants who trade with us. It is divided into four branches, of each of which something should be said in the TIMES.

I.—POSTAL SUBSIDY.

The Committee say, on the subject of the Postal Subsidies paid to the Cunard and Galway lines, that "The payment of these subsidies by the Government has already been the main cause of reducing the price of ocean freights from New York to Liverpool below what they are from Quebec to Liverpool; and if this system is continued, it will be in vain for the Provincial Government, or her Majesty's subjects in Canada, to attempt to regain the trade of the West."

Your Committee, therefore, most earnestly urge the Provincial Government to continue to press upon the consideration of the Imperial Government the importance of extending the same amount of postal subsidy to steamers plying from any port of Great Britain to Quebec, as may now or hereafter be paid to any other line of steamers from any port in Great Britain to New-York."

II.—RECIPROCITY.

The Committee say they regret the restrictions recently placed on the commercial intercourse between the United States and Canada; suggest that measures should be taken for their removal, and regret that the satisfactory working of so beneficial a thing as Reciprocity should have been restricted in its operation.

III.—CONSULAR FEES.

Your commercial lawyers should investigate the very important decision of the Committee on the legality of the Consular Fees. The report on this subject is as follows:

"After a careful examination, your Committee have come to the conclusion that these fees are illegal, and that there is no authority for the appointment of Consuls or the collection of fees at those ports under any existing laws in the United States or Canada.

The authority alleged by the American Secretary of the Treasury to confer this power, is an Act of Congress passed in 1823 which authorized the Consul or Commercial Agent of the United States to receive a fee of $2 for each certificate issued.

In this view your Committee do not concur. They are aware of no law which permits of the exaction of fees, unless it may be an Act of Congress of last session, which it is said authorizes a fee of half-a-dollar on certificates granted by them.

The Act of 1823 was superseded by Act of Congress passed on the 2d March, 1831 entitled 'an Act to regulate the foreign and coasting trade on the northern, northeastern and northwestern frontier of the United States, and for other purposes.'

The appointment of a Consul-General for British America at Quebec is authorized by the Act of Congress passed in 1856, but it does not extend to the appointments of Consuls, or the collection of fees, in the inferior ports of Canada.

Your Committee also regret to find that since the report of 1857, the British Consul at New York has authorized the appointment of Consuls at the different ports in the United States, who impose a fee of $3 on all Colonial vessels trading to these ports. This is claimed to be done under the authority of the Imperial Act 6 Geo. IV. c. 87, passed in 18 5, and an Order in Council of the 1st May, 1855, authorizes the Privy Council to make out, and alter from time to time, a schedule of fees under the provisions of former acts. The British Consul also refers, as does the British Consul at Chicago to the Act of Congress of the 3d of March 1847, requiring captains and masters of vessels from foreign nations to deposit their papers with the Consul of the nation to which they belong, until again cleared, under pain of a heavy penalty.

Your Committee have examined these and find that neither the Act, Order in Council nor Act of Congress have any reference whatever to the inland ports of the Province of Canada or the United States, their operation being exclusively confined to the seaboard, as the preamble of the respective acts. 6 Geo 4, caps. 87 and 114, passed in 1825, 'Regulating the trade of the British possessions abroad,' clearly show.

The reason assigned by the Secretary of the Treasury of the United States for the appointment of these consuls, were declared to be for the protection of the revenue and to admit foreign goods being introduced into the United States from Canada; and adds that he feels confident that the legitimate interests of the commerce between the two countries will be promoted by a rigid enforcement of the new regulations. On reference to the trade and navigation returns of Canada for 1858 (p. 215), it will be seen that the value of goods from sea passing through Canada for consumption in the United states amounts to only $26 918, while the value of goods from sea passing through the United States for consumption in Canada amounts to $17 348 938.

From these returns it is apparent that no foreign merchandise has been introduced into the United States from Canada to any extent.

The relative proportions of the United States and Canada afford sound reasons for the distinction drawn by the respective Governments between the Atlantic coast and the inland lake coast. Consular fees and restrictions may be requisite for trade between distant nations and the United States by means of the facilities for intercourse between Canada and the States are so great, and the long frontier line of boundary is so easily traversed, such restrictions are in this case only pernicious and useless. The distinction, therefore, which was recognized to exist between the commercial intercourse by the seaboard and by way of the inland boundary, which is now attempted to be set aside, was a sound one, and was an evidence of the wisdom on the part of the Governments of Great Britain and the United States.

Your Committee earnestly recommend to the Executive Government to represent to the Imperial authorities the unsatisfactory state of the trade between the United States and Canada during the past year, and also to take an early opportunity of placing a clear and distinct representation of the facts before the Government of the United States, as they confidently believe that the removal of all existing restrictions will be promptly brought about."

IV.—COMMERCE.

The Committee speak of the results of the Reciprocity, showing that it has lead to the increase of trade between Canada and the United States in a greater ratio than between Canada and Great Britain. They then proceed as follows:

"In view also of the results since produced under the operation of that treaty, it is worthy of consideration whether it would not promote the general interests of Great Britain, the United States and Canada to adopt the tariff of the United States; remove all Customs establishments between them, which would effect a saving of a very large expenditure; collect the duties for Canada at the port of Quebec only, and divide the entire revenue collected on the Atlantic seaboard in proportion to the population of the respective countries. This could be effected without any political change and without injury to any existing interest in either country, but on the contrary would save the expense of maintaining the different Customs establishments in the interior; increase our revenue and insure an ample support for the Civil Government, and payment of the public debt. This object can be affected simply by adopting the same principles as exist between the different independent German States of Europe.

This German Commercial Union (or Zollverein) was commenced in 1818, and progressively extended, until it comprised more than three fourths of the German States, with a population of about thirty millions, and is based upon the principle of reciprocity, and has done more to promote the industry and prosperity of the people than any other measure which could have been adopted. It is simple and economical in its operation, has removed hundreds of custom houses, thousands of custom officers, and has reduced the cost of collection to a mere trifle."

There are all matters which are of considerable importance, both to the Province and to the Northern and Western States around the lakes.

FROM LAKE SUPERIOR.

The Weather—Iron Ore Locations—Bay De Noquet and Marquette Railroad—The Smith Mountain—The Marquette and Ontonagon Railroad—Anthracite Coal Furnaces on Lake Superior.

Correspondence of the New-York Times.

MARQUETTE, LAKE SUPERIOR, Mich., Monday, April 18, 1859.

Our anticipations of an unusually early Spring, based on the mild weather of February, have not been realized. We have had but little warm weather for the last three weeks, and still have snow on the ground. The following is a summary of some of the meteorological observations made at this place by Dr. G. H. BLAKER, during the past winter, for the Smithsonian Institution:

	Mean Temperature.	Fall of snow in inches.	Extremes of Barometer.
November	31° 09'	44 63	29.75 and 28 84
December	24° 06'	31.71	29 74 and 28 71
January	20° 27'	17.64	29.74 and 28 74
February	19° 76'	21.30	29 75 and 28.87
March	30° 80'	20.69	29.88 and 28.51
April	..	24.13	....

	Warmest day in each month.		Coldest day in each month
December 19	38°	December 8	8° 2'
January 20	40° 2'	January 22	9° 2'
February 16	45°	February	10°

The mean temperature of the three Winter months was 21° 87' Fahrenheit; the total amount of snow, measured as it fell, from the month of November to the present time is 160.30 inches.

About 10,000 tons iron ore is now quarried out ready for shipment at the locations of our Iron Ore Companies. The Jackson Company's Mine is 14 miles, the Cleveland Company's 16, and the Lake Superior Company's 17 miles west of this place. All three are on the line of the Northern Division of the Bay de Noquet and Marquette Railroad, which is completed to the farthest location. They are all situated along the summit of the dividing ridge between the tributaries of Lake Superior and of Lake Michigan, at an elevation of 800 to 900 feet above the level of Lake Superior. The demand for the ore this season will be large; the Lake freight of upwards of 20,000 tons has been already engaged for early shipment, and all the Companies are making most diligent effort to be prepared to furnish what will be wanted as the season advances. The equipment of the Bay de Noquet and Marquette Railroad, by which the ore is brought from the mines to the Lake, is adequate to a business of 700 to 1000 tons daily. Our furnaces are also in full blast, and we have a good stock of charcoal pig-iron ready for shipment. Everybody is waiting impatiently for the season to commence.

The iron locations, which are now being worked by the Companies just mentioned, are believed to be the best within twenty five miles of the Lake. About twelve miles west of the Lake Superior Mine, however, is a location known as the "Smith Mountain," where there is a remarkably large deposit of excellent ore, presenting a perpendicular face of considerable elevation, and situated very eligibly for cheap quarrying. Were it accessible by a railroad, and its product added to that of the locations now worked, there would be no question of the ability of this county to supply any probable demand for ore. The Smith Mountain is on the line of the Marquette and Ontonagon Railroad, and there is some prospect of its being brought into market this season or next. The Lake Superior Journal states that the Marquette and Ontonagon Company intend this Spring, to commence operations at the Cleveland Mountain, and finish twenty miles westward this season. The land granted in aid by Congress, 3,840 acres per mile, then becomes available for the distance of constructed road. On the twenty miles immediately west of this place, the grant is overlapped by those of the Bay de Noquet and Marquette, and the Chicago, St. Paul and Fond du Lac Companies. The routes of all these three Companies approach Marquette from the southwest, for nearly twenty miles, within two or three miles distance of each other. The other two are nearly parallel to the present finished line of the Bay de Noquet and Marquette Road; and the Department of the Interior has decided, that under these circumstances, for that portion of their distance, the grant for one road only is to be distributed between the roads which shall be actually constructed. This is reasonable enough, since one road will answer the purpose of all the three Companies, so far as their routes are in common. By the construction of the second section of twenty miles, the Marquette and Ontonagon Company realize the entire amount of land granted per mile, instead of a portion of it, and open up valuable iron-lands which fall to their selection. It is understood that running connections are to be established with the Bay de Noquet and Marquette Railroad Company, by which this section will be made available for business as soon as opened. This enterprise, which will certainly be immediately remunerative if the iron-ore trade continues to increase, will tend greatly to promote the growth and business of this place."

At the Stockholders' meeting of the Bay de Noquet and Marquette Railroad Company, held recently at this place, the following gentlemen were elected Directors:

Joseph S. Fay, Boston, Mass.
Andrew Low, Savannah, Ga.
Edward Padelford, Savannah, Ga.
Edwin Parsons, New-York.
Samuel P. Ely, Marquette, Mich.
Joseph F. Greenough, Boston, Mass.
Lewis H. Morgan, Rochester, N. Y.

Our blast furnaces in this county now use charcoal exclusively. It is proposed, however, to put up some new ones on the shore of the lake to use Anthracite Up-freight to this port is brought at a very low rate; the amount of down-freight being more than five times the larger, there is scarcely sufficient coming up to serve as ballast, and that little is a subject of competition at merely nominal rates. Up to an amount something like a third or a quarter of our annual shipments of iron ore, (which will be, this season, between 60,000 and 75,000 tons,) Anthracite coal could be shipped here at 50 cents a ton, freight from Buffalo. Its cost here would be between $4 and $5 the ton; at which price it is a cheap fuel for the reduction of our richlons on the spot. A ton and a half of anthracite makes a ton of pig metal from our ore. E.

HORRIBLE ACCIDENT.—A WOMAN SCALDED TO DEATH IN A CALDRON OF BOILING OIL.—A horrible occurrence happened at the Belle River Station of the Great Western Railway on Wednesday, by which the wife of the station-master lost her life. The facts, as we learn from parties direct from that place, are as follows: Some painters were about commencing a job of painting for the Railway Company at the Station, and were preparing their oil for the purpose. A large kettle or caldron was arranged in one of the apartments of the Station-house, which they had filled with oil, and were boiling. They had left it for a short time, to attend to some other matters, when some part of it run over and took fire on the stove, which was very hot. MRS. TAYLOR, the wife of the station master, was the only person in the house at the time, except a child, and, fearing that it would set the house on fire, set to work to put it out. In doing this, by some jar or shake given to the stove, the pipe parted. She then got a chair, and placing it beside the stove, stepped upon it to adjust the pipe, when the chair tipped and she fell headforemost into the boiling oil.

The oil that was displaced by the immersion of the woman, commenced blazing upon the stove, and the flames soon communicated to that upon the floor, and the room was instantly filled with fire and smoke. The child commenced screaming with terror, and ran out of the house. Her cries soon attracted the attention of the painters, who were no great distance away, and who ran to the house, supposing the building to be on fire. A few buckets of water, however, speedily put out the fire on the floor, and then for the first time did they notice the horrible position of MRS. TAYLOR. She was at once taken out, but of course was lifeless. The upper portion of her body, with her head, was literally boiled, the hair falling off, and the flesh parting with every touch. Her clothes had taken fire from the flames, burning the other portions of her body in a most shocking manner. In fact, the remains presented an unrecognizable mass of burned flesh and bones that were sickening to look upon.—Detroit Free Press.

A NEW CHURCH TROUBLE IN PRUSSIA.—Professor HENGSTENBERG, the spiritual chief of the orthodox Lutheran party in Prussia, has been formally accused of insulting the OBER-KIRCHEN-RATH, or highest constituted authority of the established Church of this country. The circumstance is most remarkable in its way. Under the old régime the OBER KICHOHENRATH (Supreme Council of the Church,) was almost exclusively composed of men sharing, and even exaggerating, the Pietist creed of the learned professor. These, on the fall of the Manteuffel Ministry, resigned. Their places were taken by men differing from the religious principles of their predecessors about in the same proportion as the present Hohenzollern Cabinet is more liberal than the ex-Manteuffel administration. One proof of this is the milder practice adopted by them relative to the marriage of parties divorced. It is against what is called their unchristian behavior, in this respect, that Professor HENGSTENBERG protested in his clerical paper. As he was not over-particular to refrain from personal offence, the Ober-Kirchen-Rath, though the insults were offered in the name of God, availed themselves of the opportunity thus afforded, and resorted to the judicial prosecution of the modern Isaiah. They at the same time, by a circular addressed to the whole clergy, notified the event in the most public manner, thus indirectly admonishing the friends of HENGSTENBERG to refrain from indulging in similar steps.

THE "TWELFTH REGIMENT" CASE.

It will be remembered that a difficulty arose between Col. John S. Cocks, of this Regiment, and General Sanford—the Colonel being an inspector on a certain field day when General Sanford was present. Col. Cocks claimed the right, as such inspector, to have entire control that day, which was denied by Gen. Sanford, who brought Col. Cocks afterwards before a Court Martial, by which he was "removed" from his command. As, however, he was not "cashiered," the gallant Colonel could be reëlected by the Regiment, which it is understood they would do unanimously, but wait the result of an appeal made by Col. Cocks.

Meanwhile, General Sanford has obtained an order from the Governor to disband the regiment and unite it with the Tenth Regiment, on the ground that it has not the legal complement of men. The number is stated to be about 250. Brigadier-General Ewen has, therefore, received an order from the Governor, countersigned by General Sanford, to the above effect.

Lieutenant Colonel Henry A. Weeks, commanding the Twelfth Regiment, obtained, on March 28, an alternative mandamus against General Ewen, for the purpose of preventing the fusion of the two regiments. To-day counsel appeared before Judge CLERKE to argue the motion of the relator that the mandamus be made peremptory.

General Ewen returns to the writ that the only effect of his action will be to make Colonel Weeks a supernumerary officer, and will not deprive him of his office or any of its privileges except command.

J. H. Anthon, for the relator, argued that the number of officers in each regiment was regulated by law, and could not be increased, even under the name of supernumeraries; that no provision was any where made for supernumerary officers. The writ of mandamus was a proper remedy in cases affecting the militia. (People vs. Scrugham, 20 Barb., 203.) This case was reversed on other points on appeal, (25 Barbour.) but this point remained unquestioned.

Clarence A. Seward, for respondent, objected to the writ as defective in its place, and not stating that the relator had requested General Ewen to comply with the demand made in the writ before applying to the Court. Further, that the Court had not jurisdiction—that it ought not to interfere with the military order of the Governor, as it would leave the respondent liable to military punishment for disobedience—that a mandamus could only require parties to do that which, without it, they could legally do—which he claimed was not the case here.

Further argument was postponed until Thursday.

SUPERIOR COURT—SPECIAL TERM.

Before Justice Moncrief.

J. B. Brewster vs. Benjamin Levy et al.—Motion to discharge from arrest denied, with $7 costs.

MEETING OF THE BAR.—A meeting of the Bar has been called for Friday next, at 3½ P. M., at the new rooms of the Law Institute, to arrange for paying a suitable tribute of respect to the memory of Nicholas Hill, Esq.

OPENING OF THE NEW LAW INSTITUTE ROOMS.—The opening of the new rooms of the New-York Law Institute was largely attended by members of the Bar, who began to come in at 3 o'clock. At 3½ P. M. Judge Edmonds delivered a very interesting address, in which he reviewed the progress of the Institution. It appears that the libraries of the Chancellor and Vice Chancellor were removed to another part of the State. This library, which has cost over $20,000, has been sustained entirely by the Bar of New-York. The library has hitherto been obliged to pay $2,500 rent, but by the kindness of the United States Judges it is now provided with ample accommodations, rent free. There is a debt of $4,000, which, it is to be hoped, will soon be cleared off.

The meeting then adjourned, and the members dispersed over the rooms, which occupy three floors, and are of the most superior character, well lighted and ventilated, with abundant room for the books. The architect, Edgar Stansbury, Esq., of No. 4 Trinity-place, deserves credit for his foresight and ability in laying out the plans, which, though made when the whole building was in confusion, have been fully carried out. The alterations have cost about $4,500.

Recent Cases.

ACTION FOR CONVERSION—"WAIVING THE TORT."

Dougherty vs. Crozier and Vultee.—(Common Pleas, General Term.)—The defendants were sued in the Fourth District Court for taking and converting to their own use the property set out in the complaint. On the return day of the summons the defendants objected that the process did not show the action was for tort; whereupon the plaintiff waived the tort, and the complaint was amended in this respect. To this no objection was made.

Defendants then answered separately, each asserting the alleged title of the plaintiff to have been fraudulently acquired, and alleging that the taking was under an execution against Jacob Rijas, the plaintiff's vendor. The plaintiffs then proved the purchase of the goods claimed and the taking by Vultee under the directions of Crozier, who knew at the time that plaintiff claimed the goods. Defendants gave evidence tending to show that Rijas was the real owner of the goods.

The Justice rendered judgment for the plaintiff, and defendants appealed mainly on the ground that an action in the nature of assumpsit could not be sustained against them; that they never derived any personal advantage from the seizure and sale, and that no promise to pay could, under the circumstances, be implied.

The Court of Common Pleas affirmed the judgment of the Justice. We give so much of this opinion as relates to this question.

BRADY, J.—For the purpose of determining these questions, it is unnecessary to consider the cases in which, under the former system of pleading, a person might waive the tort committed by wrongfully obtaining or converting goods, and bring an action to recover on an implied assumpsit, or promise to pay for them. The defendants were fully advised of the facts on which the plaintiff's claim was based, and introduced evidence to meet them. The action was tried on its merits, and whether the plaintiff was rightly in form, is wholly immaterial. We are required by the 366th section of the Code to give judgment according to the justice of the case, without regard to technical errors and defects which do not affect the merits. Whether the action was in form assumpsit, when it should have been for taking and converting personal property, is a technical defect which cannot be regarded as affecting the merits, when the proof given and answered was such as would have been required to sustain the latter form. The facts proved show the defendants liable as trespassers, and the judgment against them cannot be disturbed. The provision of section 366 is similar to that of section 173, and which gives to the courts of record the power to amend a pleading or proceeding by conforming it to the facts proved, where the amendment does not substantially change the cause of action. The cause of action in this case is the same, whether urged under the form of a promise to pay, or for taking and converting goods. The judgment must therefore be affirmed.

ENTRY OF ORDERS—PARTY NOT TO BE PREJUDICED BY COURT'S DELAY.

Clapp vs. Graves.—(Common Pleas—General Term)—This was a motion to vacate an order formerly made by the General Term of the Common Pleas, allowing an appeal to the Court of Appeals from the judgment of the General Term on an appeal taken from the judgment of a Justice. The ground of moving to set aside the order allowing the appeal was that it was not entered in time; it not having been made before the end of the next term after the judgment of the General Term was rendered. Other facts are stated in the opinion.

DALY, F. J.—To authorize an appeal to the Court of Appeals, it is necessary, by the statute, that the General Term should, by order duly entered, allow such appeal before the end of the next term after which judgment was entered. The appellant applied for such an order at the next term, both parties were heard, but the Court did not announce its decision until the term was passed, but they directed the order allowing the appeal, to be entered up as of the term when the application was made, being the next term after judgment.

It is a general rule that where an act is to be done within a certain time, in which the concurrence of the Court is necessary, and a party has done all that he is required to do to obtain the decision of the Court, that he is not to suffer through the Court's delay; and if the Court give their decision after the time is passed, it may be entered up as of the time when, by law, it ought to have been given. "It is by no means unusual," says Lord Kenyon, in Pearson vs. Ronbig, 1 East., 405, "to make entries of judicial acts nunc pro tunc." And the reason is given in Crispe vs. The Mayor of Berwick, Vent. 90, "there being no default in the party, but a delay which came by the act of the Court." So in Craven vs. Hawley, Barnes 255, it is said, per curiam, "the party must not suffer by the Courts taking time to consider." In Lure vs. Rich, 10 Mod., 30, a writ of inquiry was executed, and before entry of judgment, which was delayed by the act of the Court, the plaintiff died, and it was held that the Court, having delayed the entry of judgment, it should be entered up as of the proper term; and in Lord Mohun's case, 6 Mad., 59, a rule for the reversal of an attainder was obtained, upon the consent of the Attorney-General, in the reign of James II., and, long after, in the reign of Anne, the Court directed the clerk to make the entry which should have been made when the rule was obtained, declaring that they would supply the neglect or defect of their officer, that subjects should not suffer by it. And to the same general effect are numerous authorities. (Taylor vs. Matthews, 10 Mad., 325; Tooker vs. Duke of Beaufort, 1 Bur., 146; Mayor of Norwich vs. Berry, 4 id., 2,377; Astley vs. Reynolds, 1 Str., 915; Webb vs Spunel, Barnes, 261; Toulmin vs. Anderson, 1 Taun., 385; Mackay vs Rhinelander, 1 John, C., 408; Biewitt vs Tregoning, 4 A. & C., 1,002; 1 Leon, 167; Latch 2; 1 Sid., 401; 1 Williams's Exporters. 763; Tidd's Practice, 932, 9th Lond. Ed.

The motion below, therefore, was without foundation, the order allowing the appeal having been already entered, by the order of the Court, as of September Term.

CIVIL ACTION MAINTAINABLE FOR RAPE—WHAT IS BUT ONE OF COMPLAINTS.

Koenig vs. Nott.—(Common Pleas, General Term.)—This was an action to recover damages. The complaint alleged that plaintiff (a female) was employed as a servant in defendant's family, and that defendant "with force and arms ill-treated and an indecent assault made upon her, and then and there debauched and carnally knew her, whereby she became pregnant and sick with child," &c., &c. That in consequence of such indecent as ault plaintiff suffered greatly in health, &c., &c., to her damage $1,000.

The defendant demurred chiefly on the ground that the complaint did not show a cause of action. The special term ordered judgment for defendant on the demurrer, from which order plaintiff appealed.

Charles Waters, for the appellant, contended that 1st. The complaint sufficiently alleges an assault and battery; and 2d, That the plaintiff's right of action for the assault and battery was not merged in the criminal remedy for the felony of rape.

Wessel S. Smith, for respondent.

DALY, F. J.—The averment in the complaint is not of an assault merely, but of a battery also. The plaintiff avers that the defendant, with force and arms, made an assault upon her and then and there debauched and carnally knew her. As every battery includes an assault, it is the usage in pleading to aver both, as is done here. (2 Chitty, Pl., 851, 6th Am. ed.) The ground of action in this complaint is, the debauchery and carnally knowing the plaintiff, which is averred to have been done by force. The vi et armis clause is not limited to the averment of an assault, but is connected by the copulative with what follows, and relates equally to the debauching and carnally knowing. That this is an averment of an assault and battery, does not, in my opinion, admit of a doubt. A battery, which, as before suggested, always includes an assault, and the statement of which, in pleading, is always accompanied by an averment of an assault, is any unlawful touching of the person of another—the degree of violence being immaterial; nor is it essential that the act should have been wilfully done, as it will suffice if the facts, upon examination, show either that the defendant was in fault, or that the act was unlawful. (See cases collected in 2 Greenleaf's Ev., sec. 84, 85; 1 Saund Pl. and Ev., 141, 5th Am. edition;) and certainly the averment here, that the defendant, by force, debauched and carnally knew the plaintiff, is a battery within this definition.

The doubt, in respect to this complaint, has arisen, I apprehend, from the pleaders employing the form of averment "assaulted, debauched and carnally knew," which was usual in actions of trespass vi et armis, brought by a father for the seduction of his daughter, or by a husband for a criminal conversation with his wife.

[His Honor here proceeded to a review of the various formulas employed in declarations in various actions of these classes, as found in Woodward vs. Walton, 1 Bos. and P. N. S., 477; Rigaud vs. Galsgard, 7 Mod. 80; 2 Chitt., Pl., 856; Macfadgen vs. Olivant, 6 East, 382; Barnett vs Alcott, 2 T. R., 166 Bac. Abr. tit., Marriage, E. 2, and other authorities and continued as follows.]

A man might, therefore, bring trespass, vi et armis, for the seduction of his wife, daughter or servant, or for an assault and battery upon them, and hence the averment of "assaulted, debauched and carnally knew" in all the forms; for whether the carnal knowledge was with or against the will of the wife or daughter, the action was equally maintainable. No forms appear in a case like the one now before us, because for seduction the woman had no cause of action (Hamilton vs. Lomax, 26 Barb., 615;) and if a carnal knowledge of her person was obtained against her will, it was a rape, and the civil action was merged in the felony. Our statute has changed the law in this respect, (3 R. S., 389, 5th ed.,) and a woman upon whom a rape has been committed, may maintain an action for the personal injury, and in stating her cause of action, it is sufficient if her complaint conforms to what was essential in the way of averment in action of trespass for injuries to the person.

[His Honor further proceeded to review the authorities in English literature and biography, both early and modern, upon the meaning of the verb "to debauch;" showing that it is used in a two-fold sense in the law forms, importing a forcible, violent ravishment, as well as a mere enticement or seduction. And upon all these grounds he held the order erroneous.]

BRADY, J.—The complaint in this case is in form the statement of a rape committed upon the plaintiff by the defendant, and one of the questions presented by the appeal is, whether for such violence the party aggrieved can maintain an action to recover damages. In England the civil right to sue for injuries occasioned by a felony was not merged or destroyed, but suspended until conviction or acquittal. It is there said to be the duty of the party injured to bring the offender to justice or to make some effort thereto and that until that duty is performed he cannot maintain an action. (Quoting from 4 Blackstone's Com., Sedgwick on Dam., 2d ed., 471.) This rule, however, does not now prevail in this State, and I have not been successful in finding any case in which it was ever enforced. The statute is express on the subject. The right of action of any person injured by any felony shall not in any case be merged in such felony or be in any manner affected thereby. (2 Rev. Stat., 4 ed., 563.) This statute has removed any impediments that may have existed by the common law, and therefore, for the assault and battery committed by the defendant, the plaintiff has a right of action which may be enforced; and on the trial of which she could prove in aggravation of damages the consequences of that assault.

The gist of the action, however, is force and violence. If the plaintiff consented to the debauching she cannot recover, and it should appear by the complaint that such was the case.

[His Honor here stated the provisions of the Code on this point; and repeated the averment of the complaint as above set out.]

Under the former system of pleading, when it was material to rely upon actual force, as in the case of forcible entry, the words manu forti, or "with strong hand," should be adopted; but in other cases "vi et armis," or with force and arms, were sufficient. (1 Chitty's Pl. 143, 6th Am. Ed.) And in actions of assault and battery; the declaration charged that the defendant, on a certain day and place, assaulted the plaintiff, and then proceeded to state the grievance according to the facts. (See 2 Chitty's Pl., Ed. Supra, pp. 848, 849. The complaint herein, in adopting the phraseology of the old forms, has departed from the rules which the Legislature has established; but the facts embraced in the complaint, though improperly stated, according to the existing provisions, are nevertheless sufficient to consitute a cause of action. If the defendant with force ill-treated the plaintiff, and made an indecent assault upon her, and with force debauched her, upon the conclusions herein expressed a cause of action exists, and though to the form of stating it there may be an objection, that objection is not the subject of demurrer. (Code, 144.) The remedy, if any, is by motion to make the complaint more definite and certain. (Code, 169.)

[The Judge then proceeded to discuss a question of jurisdiction raised in the case, which we omit.]

HILTON, J., dissented, on the ground that the statement of the complaint did not amount to an averment of actual violence used. The felony of rape ought not to be presumed against the defendant in the absence of explicit averment. The allegation that defendant made "an indecent assault," did not imply actual violence; but only that defendant threatened the plaintiff with violence, without touching her person.

Order appealed from reversed.

PROMISSORY NOTE—TAKING RENEWAL RELEASES INDORSER.

Platt vs. Stark.—(Common Pleas, General Term.)—This was an action against the indorsers of a promissory note. The plaintiff recovered judgment below, and defendant appealed. The facts appear in the opinion.

HILTON, J.—The defendant is sued as an indorser upon a promissory note for $200, made to his order by one A. H. Gough, and now held by the plaintiff.

The note became due in July, 1854, and it appears that in September following, the maker paid to George W. Platt, one of the plaintiffs, $50 on account of it, gave his individual note, payable in three months thereafter, for the remaining $150, deposited with the plaintiff two corporation leases as security for its payment, and received from him a written instrument acknowledging the receipt of the new note and leases, and releasing the defendant as indorser on the note now sued upon.

It is claimed by the plaintiff that this release is not only void, for want of a consideration to support it, but in addition that it is invalid because it was obtained upon representations made by Gough, which induced the plaintiff to sign it, without reading it to ascertain its contents or effect.

As it is not disputed that, after the note in suit became due, the plaintiff accepted the new note from the maker without the consent or knowledge of the indorser, it is quite immaterial to inquire whether or not the release was invalid upon either of the grounds suggested.

The effect of accepting the new note was to extend the time for the payment of the original indebtedness; it entirely suspended the plaintiff's right of action during the period it had to run, and the defendant was, by this extension of credit to the maker, as effectually released from any liability as indorser upon the note in suit, as he would have been by a novation to which he was not a party. (Meyers vs. Wells, 5 Hill, 463; Collmand vs. Lamb. 15 Wend., 329, 332; Nexsen vs. Lyell, 5 Hill. 466; Fellows vs. Prentiss, 3 Denio, 512, 518; Coleman vs. Wade, 2 Selden, 44; Wood vs. Jefferson Co. Bank. 9 Cow., 194, 206; Putnam vs. Lewis, 8 John. 389; Hart vs. Hudson, 6 Duer, 294, 304.)

For this reason the plaintiffs were not entitled to recover, and the judgment of the Justice in their favor was erroneous and must be reversed. Judgment reversed.

DISCHARGED FROM ARREST—TAKING NEW SECURITY.

Hillyer vs. Johnson.—(Supreme Court, Chambers.)—This was a motion to discharge on an order of arrest. The defendant was a broker, and the cause of action was for moneys received by him as broker, on selling stocks for plaintiff, which moneys he had refused to pay over. This was the ground on which the arrest was ordered.

The affidavits to oppose the motion showed that the defendant had given his own notes, with indorsement, in payment of the claim. It was shown, however, that these notes were not paid at maturity, whereupon plaintiff returned them and sued on the original claim.

ROOSEVELT, J., denied the motion to vacate the arrest. He held that the notes given were not a higher security than the original claim, in any such sense as to amount to a waiver of the original wrong. Having been dishonored and returned, they had no effect to vary plaintiff's right, and the acceptance of them was no bar to a resort to the provisional remedy of arrest.

J. Warren Lawton for the motion; W. T. Van Riper opposed.

The Government Commissioners have arrived at Davenport, Iowa, and have commenced the examination of the Rock Island Bridge.

HYATT'S PATENT LIGHTS.
A CARD HAVING BEEN ISSUED TO THE PUBLIC

By parties who frankly confess that they do not pay us for my invention, I avail myself of this opportunity to advertise the names of those who do. The following persons, only, are licensed under my patents in this City:

George R. Jackson & Co.
J. B. & W. W. Cornell & Co.
S. B. Althause & Co.
Ingalls & Case.
Theodore Hyatt.

The law is, that a person who purchases or uses a patented article is equally liable for infringement with the maker of it. The "makers" having fairly notified the "users" of their intention not to pay, the "users" have only themselves to blame if I collect my tariff of them. I shall certainly do. THADDEUS HYATT.

WANTED—A SITUATION BY A RESPECTABLE English girl as lady's maid and seamstress; understands dressmaking. Call at No. 110 8th av.

WANTED.—AN EXPERIENCED LAUNDRESS and chamber maid to wash for seven in family, and willing to make herself useful. City references required. Apply at No. 66 East 21st-st., between 3 and 11 A. M.

A LADY'S OR SICK NURSE—AN AMERIcan care-taker, a chambermaid and seamstress, an English infant's nurse, a colored chambermaid, &c.—all Protestants—are now disengaged at Mr. BOUKHAM'S select and only office, No. 89 East 13th st., third door west of Broadway.

FAMILIES, HOTELS AND BOARDING-HOUSES supplied with select Germans, English, Irish and Scotch servants of every capacity at MRS. 213 COENERIS establishment, No. 424 Broadway, next door to Broadway Post office. Also, gardeners, farmers, waiters, &c., constantly on hand.

ANY FAMILY GOING IN THE COUNTRY for the summer, can meet with a reasonable person (an Englishwoman) to take care of their horses in the City. Best reference given. Apply at No. 235 6th-av., between 29th and 31st-sts.

SITUATIONS WANTED.
FEMALES.

WANTED—A SITUATION BY A RESPECTABLE woman, as laundress, or as chambermaid and fine washing, good City reference given. Can be seen, for two days at No. 167 13th-st., between 3d and 4th avs.

WANTED—A SITUATION BY A GOOD COOK, who thoroughly understands her business; meats, soups pastries, &c.; has good City reference. Apply at No. 49 West 13th st., in the rear.

WANTED—A SITUATION BY A RESPECTABLE girl as waitress; lived three years in her last place. No objections to the country during summer. Apply at No. 199 West 35th st.

WANTED—A SITUATION BY A RESPECTABLE Protestant girl to do general housework; has the best City reference. Can be seen, till suited, at No. 187 30th-st., between 8th and 9th avs.

WANTED—A SITUATION BY A WELSH GIRL to do chamberwork and waiting; best of City reference. Can be seen for two days at No. 118 16th st., between 1st and 2d avs.

WANTED—A SITUATION BY AN AMERICAN girl to do chamberwork and waiting, or assist with the washing; has good reference. Call at 362 2d-av., one door from the corner of 23d-st.

WANTED—A SITUATION BY A RESPECTABLE woman as cook; no objection to assist in the washing and ironing; can give good City reference. Call at No. 160 17th-st., first floor. Can be seen for two days.

WANTED—BY A COMPETENT DRESSMAKER and seamstress, a situation in a respectable private family; can dress hair, and has good recommendations. Can be seen at No. 398 6th av., between 24th and 25th-sts.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

The Royal Mail steamship Niagara, now in her twelfth day out from Liverpool, had not reached Halifax at a late hour last night.

The Overland California Mail brings us intelligence of another desperate fight with the Indians on the Colorado River. A party of forty men, under Mr. BISHOP, on their way to join Lieutenant BEALE'S surveying expedition, were attacked on the 20th of March by a party of six or seven hundred Mohaves, Yumas and Pah Utes. The fight lasted three hours, during which a great number of the Indians were killed. The loss of the whites is not stated. Mr. BISHOP'S party retreated towards Fort Tejon, and sent to Colonel HOFFMAN for assistance, which was expected soon to reach them. An attack was to be made on the Mohave villages. The attack was altogether unexpected, as the party had received full permisston to pass through the Indian country. The California news by this mail is three days later, but is wholly unimportant.

The steamship Bavaria, of the Hamburg line, from Southampton April 18, arrived here yesterday. The news is no later than that received by the Glasgow.

The Government awaits more definite information from Utah before taking action in relation to the troubles now existing there. It is believed, however, that Governor CUMMING will be sustained, his conduct being regarded as wise and conciliatory.

The Canadian Parliament was prorogued yesterday afternoon. The Governor-General's speech on the occasion was made up principally of congratulations on the amount and character of the business accomplished. He states that the income of the Province for the first quarter of the current year shows signs of the revival of trade, as well as an increase of resources.

Havana advices to the 2d inst. have reached us, by the way of New-Orleans. The news is unimportant. Sugar is quoted dull. The stock on hand was 296,000 boxes.

General HENNINGSEN announces, in a letter to a Georgia paper, that he and several of his friends have withdrawn from the Arizona Expedition first formed, and have entered into a new compact, associating themselves under the title of "Henningsen's Arizona Emigration Association." The members of this company are to rendezvous in Georgia during the month of July.

From some unexplained accident there was no Boston mail received last night.

The proceedings instituted in New-Orleans against M. MEJAN, the French Consul, for harboring a runaway colored sailor, have been abandoned.

At the municipal election in Philadelphia on Tuesday, the entire "People's ticket" was elected by a large majority. The "People" have a majority in both Councils.

The damage by the break in the Erie Canal at Holley will amount to $30,000. One life was lost by the falling-in of the embankment.

The Hon. J. PHILLIPS PHŒNIX died at his residence in this City yesterday morning. He was a native of New-Jersey, but had been many years a resident of New-York, and was early engaged in mercantile pursuits. He was almost the last of the old residents of the First Ward who clung to their domicils in spite of the changed character of the district. He had twice represented it in Congress, and remained to the last a straight out Whig.

The New York Board of Currency met last evening at Clinton Hall, and were addressed by the Hon. GEORGE OPDYKE upon the subject of the Currency, the Usury laws and the proceedings of the late Legislature upon these subjects. RICHARD COBDEN is to be invited to deliver an address before the Board.

The weekly report presented at the meeting of the Commissioners of Emigration yesterday, gives 11,194 as the number of emigrants having arrived at this port since Jan. 1. The balance sheet shows an overdraft of $20,486 45. A report was adopted fixing the conditions on which railroad companies will be allowed to sell tickets in the Garden. The Pennsylvania Central and the Baltimore and Ohio Railroads refuse to enter into the agreement.

A stated meeting of the Board of Education was held last evening. The plan of the proposed Normal School for females was discussed, but not definitely acted upon. The Board appropriated $4,097 for fitting up and furnishing Ward School No. 10, in Wooster-street.

The Russian screw-frigate General Admiral went down the Bay yesterday, on an engineers' trial trip. The noble ship steamed through the East River at ten o'clock A. M., accompanied and assisted by three powerful steam-tugs.

The hearing of the mandamus case arising out of the difficulty between Gen. SANFORD and Col. COCKS of the Twelfth Regiment, was commenced in the Supreme Court yesterday. A report will be found in our legal column.

The members of the bar assembled yesterday in the rooms which have been appropriated to the New-York Law Institute in the United States Court Building, to hear an address from Judge EDMONDS, and to examine the new accommodations provided for the studies of the profession. The new arrangements give great satisfaction.

In the Court of General Sessions yesterday CHARLES JOHNSON was convicted of stealing a watch valued at $80, and sentenced to three years in the State Prison. Two other cases, altogether deficient in interest, were disposed of by the acquittal of the parties accused.

JAMES GLASS, the brother of JOHN GLASS, who was convicted last week for the manslaughter of WILHELM DECKER, in Elm-street, in January, was brought before Judge DAVIES, in the Court of Oyer and Terminer yesterday, charged with the murder of RICHARD OWENS, a stevedore, residing in Brooklyn, who was passing opposite DECKER'S house at the time of the affray which resulted in DECKER'S death, and who, on his crossing over to ascertain the cause of the disturbance, was shot dead, as alleged, by the prisoner. Only nine jurors who had not formed an opinion were obtained yesterday, and an extra panel of one hundred were summoned for to-day.

The Cattle markets were rather scantily supplied yesterday, and prices advanced more than ½c. ℔ lb. on prime bullocks, and near that on common cattle. There were only 2,455 beeves on sale at Forty-fourth-street, against 3,125 last week, while the total for the City was 713 head less than the previous week. The cattle were mostly of medium quality, with a single pair of splendid premium Kentucky Durhams, held at $600, and one or two lots of fine still-fed animals. There was no real deficiency in numbers, as the yards were only emptied at night, after rather slow sales, extending over two days. Veal calves are abundant, and command but 4c.@5c. for medium, and 6c. for good animals. Sheep have been rather scarce, at about former prices, while pork is more abundant and cheaper. The free arrivals of Southern vegetables, and a full supply of eggs and fish, rather detract from the butchers' stalls.

Yesterday's sales of Cotton were 3,000 bales in transitu and from store, at steady prices. Flour was more inquired for, and desirable lots were 5c. @10c. ℔ bbl. dearer. Wheat was quiet. Corn and Rye were in good demand, at advanced prices. Pork and Lard were freely dealt in, but at reduced rates. Beef was salable and firm. Coffee, Teas, Rice and Molasses were in request at steady figures. Sugars were more active, sales having been made of 1,185 hhds. Cuba, at 6¾c.@7¾c.; 22 hhds. in bond, at 6c.; 245 hhds. New-Orleans, at 6¾c.@7¾c.; 220 hhds. English Island, at 6¼c.@7¼c.; 147 hhds. Porto Rico at 6¼c.@7¼c.; 39 hhds do. in bond, at 6c.; and 45 boxes Havana at 7¼c.@8¾c. ℔ lb. The reported movement in Naval Stores included 5,000 bbls. Common Rosin, nearly, if not quite all, to arrive, at $1 70c. ℔ 310 lbs.; 400 bbls. Wilmington Tar at $2 62½c. ℔ bbl.; and 300 bbls. Spirits Turpentine 52½c.@53c. ℔ per gallon. Other branches of trade exhibited no important changes. The total number of vessels of all classes in port was 515.

Boiler Explosions.

The late explosions on the Mississippi River, in San Francisco harbor, on the Reading Railroad, and in various steam-mills all over the country, are again urging the community in terrific language to find out at any cost a sure preventive of this wholesale slaughter, and to enforce all known means of safety by rigid laws.

It is first important to make the proper distinction between the bursting and the explosion of a boiler. The former is due merely to a gradual and normal increase of pressure, which at length overcomes the cohesion of the metal, and, like hydrostatic pressure, or like a wedge, simply opens the weakest part of the vessel, without doing further damage. It is a question of known power and resistance, and when it happens is the immediate result of bad proportions, material or workmanship, of gross carelessness, or deliberate recklessness. All these are common.

But explosions may occur when neither of these conditions exist. They are the result of an instantaneous and terrific multiplication of the pressure, which rips open the strongest as well as the weakest portions of the boiler, and shatters everything in the vicinity like gunpowder or lightning. They have been known to tear buildings and ships into splinters, and to hurl locomotives weighing thirty tons over fences and ditches into the neighboring fields.

Notwithstanding the talent and labor bestowed on the subject ever since steam was introduced as a motor, the law and nature of the explosive force has not yet been definitely determined. We cannot say with mathematical certainty that any known device will invariably avert the catastrophe. But the field of probable causes is diminishing. For instance, no explosive gas, if any is generated in the boiler, could find air enough to form an explosive mixture, and could not in all cases find heat enough to cause ignition. Several theories of explosion appear reasonable.

First—Superheated steam—that is, steam from which all dampness has been expelled by subsequent heating—will instantly absorb a certain amount of spray or common steam, and thereby become again converted into common steam of greatly increased volume. If the water level is permitted to fall so low that the steam shall touch any part of the boiler in immediate contact with the fire, then the steam will become superheated. Now, if by letting off steam, the pressure in the boiler becomes reduced, the surface of the water will rise in the shape of foam or spray, which is instantly absorbed by the superheated steam in contact with it, and thus the volume of steam is so suddenly multiplied that no safety valve can carry it off, and no ordinary strength of metal can retain it. All this has been deliberately done, again and again, by way of experiment, and invariably produces the same result. Therefore we cannot say that it is not the cause of ordinary explosions; if it is, the infallible preventive is to keep plenty of water in the boiler.

Second—If we throw water on a red-hot metallic surface, it does not appear to touch the metal, but will dance about in a spheroidal form, and finally flash off into steam. It is therefore believed that when water is suddenly brought into contact with unduly heated portions of a boiler, just this phenomenon occurs, and that when the heating surface is sufficiently cooled to allow the water to touch it, such a large amount of steam is instantly generated that an explosion ensues. If this is a real cause of danger, the preventive is as certain as it is obvious: keep plenty of water in the boiler.

Third—The greater the pressure in a boiler the greater is the heat required to generate steam. Hence, with the pressure at 100 pounds, and the water at 330 degrees, if the pressure be suddenly reduced to 30 pounds, most of the water in the boiler will be hot enough to flash instantly into steam, for it only requires 250 degrees of heat to make steam under a pressure of 30 pounds. So, if a large enough vent is opened in the boiler by any of the causes which, in themselves, produce only rupture or bursting, an explosion may instantaneously follow. But it does not always follow, hence this is at least not the only cause of explosions.

Fourth—There is a mighty but mysterious element in nature permeating all matter and space, and, doubtless, underlying every visible source of motion and power, but, thus far, hiding many of its laws from human inquiry. We can never say that electricity is not the ultimate cause of every natural phenomenon. Indeed, there exist the strongest proofs that it is one of the chief causes, if it is not the only and direct cause of explosions. As to the other theories, the reasoning is often more straightforward and satisfactory than the experiments; but with electricity the results are wonderfully conclusive, while we cannot account for them. For this reason we are not mathematically certain that a given means will always prevent an explosion, under the ever-varying circumstances of steam-generation.

But it is settled that an iron boiler, wrapped with a loose copper casing, may be heated red-hot, and then suddenly filled with water without exploding, and that the same boiler without the copper casing, other circumstances being the same, will instantly explode under similar treatment. Moreover, a large amount of fuel is saved by the use of the copper casing. These are obviously electrical phenomena. Experiments have been for some time in progress at Cincinnati to explain and certify these results; the facts are so well authenticated that a large amount of capital and talent has been enlisted, and the improvements are being introduced on stationary engines and locomotives. Again: Some years ago, a Mr. LLOYD, of Philadelphia, now deceased, with the aid and under the scrutiny of competent engineers, repeatedly filled red-hot boilers with water without exploding them, by connecting the positive electricity generated in the boiler with the negative electricity outside by an insulated metallic rod. Without this lightning-rod the boilers thus treated would invariably explode. It is not clear, however, in what manner the spark or thunderbolt is originated or communicated between the positive and negative electricity. Another citizen of Philadelphia has now taken up this subject with the same issue, and is applying the improvement to many boilers. We cannot at this time give the detailed results of all these important experiments. One example will illustrate their character. A nine-inch bomb shell was partly filled with water and then sealed up, and heated red-hot. A positive and a negative wire led into the centre of the shell. The water being converted into steam, no explosion occurred. But a spark from a battery being communicated to the wire, the shell instantly blew into fragments with a terrific crash.

In view of the frequent exposure of every man, woman and child to death in its most frightful form,—of the daily occurrence of these terrible calamities,—of the simple means which are morally sure to prevent them, and of the brilliant promises of the present discoveries, it behooves the whole public to encourage and insist upon the establishment of each and all of the proper remedies. It will not average the smallest per cent. of gain,—if this be the standard of value for human life,—to run hourly risks, and sacrifice thousands of people while the doctors are disputing as to the specific details of a science which will be more or less obscure till the millennium.

One thing is certain, when all the known means of safety are faithfully employed, boiler explosions are of very rare occurrence. These new electrical developments indicate that they may be entirely prevented.

IMPORTANT CHANGE IN THE LIEN LAW.—An important alteration was made at the last session of the Legislature in the law with relation to liens upon ships and vessels. It has been the law for many years, in our State, that the mechanic who does labor, or the merchant who furnishes supplies, to the amount of $50, for the fitting or furnishing of any vessel in this State, shall be allowed to hold the vessel for his pay. Various amendments have been made at times to the statute to increase its efficiency, and to render its working more easy and equitable, but the policy of the law has been accepted as good all over the State, by courts and lawyers and clients, by owners of vessels as well as by furnishers of labor and supplies.

And yet of a sudden, without any call for any change, without any talk about it, a few words are put into the statute which, for a large proportion of those who were benefited by it, repeal the law and take away the lien. The statute was amended by our last Legislature so as to provide that "whenever a debt amounting to fifty dollars on sea-going or ocean-bound vessels, or whenever a debt of fifteen dollars on vessels navigating any of the lakes of this State, shall be contracted by the master, owner, agent or consignee of any ship or vessel," &c., &c., such debt shall be a lien, &c.

Now, if we assume that the phrase "any of the lakes of this State" will include Lakes Erie and Ontario and Champlain, and will not be confined in its meaning to the small lakes lying entirely within the State, which is by no means certain, we should like to ask what was the reason of the discrimination in favor of the mechanic who does labor on a vessel on the lakes? Why should one who furnishes fifteen dollars worth of supplies to a vessel at Buffalo have a lien on her for it, and the one who furnishes to the same amount in New-York have none?

But the main point in the law is the insertion of those three words, "sea-going or ocean-bound"—which of course exclude from the benefit of the law all those who do work or furnish supplies to vessels which navigate the Hudson River. For all the immense commerce of that River the lien law is repealed. Men who do work or furnish supplies to all the steamboats, passenger-boats, or tow-boats, between here and Troy, or to all sloops or vessels sailing there which do not go out of Sandy Hook, must look, while this statute remains in force, only to the personal liability of the men with whom they deal. It is plain, too, that there is ample room for litigation on the question, what is a "sea-going or ocean-bound" vessel? Does it include those steamtugs, which sometimes go a few miles outside of the Hook in quest of vessels? Does it include the steamboats and vessels which run from this City to all the places on the Sound, the Hartford, the Stonington, or even the Fall River boats?

Such a change in the law may have been the result of mere carelessness on the part of the one who drew the law, as it certainly was the result of carelessness on the part of those who passed it; or the carelessness may have been confined to the Legislature, and the law have been got up by some one in the interest of owners of vessels on the North River. Which of these hypotheses is true might perhaps be more easily decided if we had the history of the amendment.

OUR NEXT NEIGHBOR.—It is not easy to see what effective aid can be rendered by our Government to that of JUAREZ in the present juncture; and yet it is plain that Mexico should neither be abandoned to herself, nor surrendered to the keeping of transatlantic Powers. Mr. MCLANE'S recognition, instead of being too early, as some inconsiderately assert, was a great deal too late. What is now wanted is, that the United States should follow it up by substantial support, in order that the Liberal and Constitutional President of the Mexican Republic may hold his ground till the people come round to him, which they will do the moment they understand our friendship can be relied on. The moral force of our recognition will do much in some quarters; but upon MIRAMON and his Church Sepoys its influence will be nothing. A display of war vessels should be made; also strenuous demands of satisfaction for American life and property sacrificed. Now is the time for us to establish an influence which shall be better to us than annexation, and to Mexico than any event she has witnessed in the last hundred years. We have no occasion to slice away her territory, or in any manner to wound her pride. Let us aid her in establishing peace, law and government. Our reward will be her trade, and the range, for business purposes, of her domain. The Government must be her Government; the country her country. We want no fillibustering, and must tolerate none. If Mexico were as capable of self-government as our neighbor on the North, we should have no occasion to meddle with her. If she were located on the other side of the round world there would be no call for even interference. But she is at our door; her disorders and turmoils visit their effects upon us; our citizens suffer from her bad government; we cannot let her alone with safety. Now is the time for beneficial intervention. Shall we have it?

OHIO AND THE SUPREME COURT OF THE UNITED STATES.—We predicted some days ago that the Supreme Court of Ohio would not follow the example of that of Wisconsin in disregarding the authority of the United States Supreme Court: and the result has been in accordance with our expectations. The cases were in all important particulars alike in the two States. The former took BOOTH, after conviction, out of the hands of the United States Marshal, by a habeas corpus from her own Supreme Court, and set him at liberty. The latter refused that writ in the case of BUSHNELL, also under conviction and in the Marshal's custody, on the ground that it could not interfere where the prisoner was held under process from a Federal Court. Both men had been tried under the Fugitive Slave Law. The cases are alike; the action of the two States diametrically opposite. It is a noteworthy contrast, more especially when it is considered that political differences do not enter into the account, as Wisconsin and Ohio are both Republican. It may here be observed that in the Ohio Court the Judges unanimously concurred in the decision.

State Governments and State Courts have, in certain cases, an exceedingly unpleasant task to perform in respecting and upholding the authority of the Federal tribunals, nor is it to be wondered at that they sometimes contrive to evade it. One of such cases arises when the Fugitive Slave law is to be enforced. Admitting that statute to be in accordance with the Constitution, it is, as every day's experience shows, most repugnant to Northern sentiment. BUSHNELL was convicted under its provisions of a serious crime. He had aided in rescuing a runaway slave, and thus subjected himself to a heavy punishment. Having the Wisconsin case before them, his friends naturally thought to rescue him from a disgraceful penalty, by the same means which took BOOTH from the clutches of the Marshal. Ohio, they reasoned, was Republican; her Governor and her Supreme Court both were of that political party. Their application was, therefore, made, as we may suppose, with the fullest confidence of success.

What the result was we have seen. It reflects high credit upon Ohio, and calls for the respect of her sister States. Especially may her example be studied with advantage by those Southern States which propose to violate the law of the land in order to re-establish the Slave-trade. Ohio checks the freedom-loving sentiment of her people that it may not trample upon the garments of the Federal judiciary. Is it too much to expect that Carolina may be induced to refrain from the importation of African slaves out of regard for the laws of the Union?

On the intrinsic difference between the sacrifice in the one case, and that in the other, we forbear to remark, and put the matter simply upon the footing of regard for the Constitution and laws under which the several States exist, and which all are bound equally to observe and obey.

A BOY OF TWELVE CONVICTED OF MANSLAUGHTER.—An extraordinary and sad spectacle was witnessed in the Court of Oyer and Terminer on Tuesday. THOMAS MILLER, a lad of twelve, was tried on an indictment for manslaughter. On the 7th of March, he had stabbed another boy with a shoemaker's awl, so that he died. The act was committed in a boyish quarrel, in which the deceased was the aggressor, and it did not appear that MILLER meant to kill, or even seriously to harm him. The Jury, however, found him guilty in the fourth degree, and he was sentenced to the House of Refuge for Juvenile Delinquents, where he may remain till he is twenty-one years of age, unless sooner dismissed by the Managers of that Institution.

We do not find by the report of the case that the prosecution was called upon to show affirmatively the boy's capacity to commit the offence charged upon him, as, being under fourteen, we believe the law requires should be done. This omission seems remarkable; but, perhaps, not more so than the slight evidence upon which the little fellow has been taken from his natural guardians to a penal incarceration of nine years. Justice is not blind. In respect to her eyesight she has been slandered. When a poor friendless man or a little boy comes up for trial, the goddess sees very clearly the enormity of the offence, and every particle of guilt in the case. A verdict is readily found, and the Courts are seldom bothered with motions for new trials or other nonsense of the sort.

ANOTHER MORTARA CASE WITH A MORE HONORABLE TERMINATION.—A remarkable correspondence has just passed between the French Consul at New-Orleans and the President of the Jewish Asylum in that city, on a subject which presents a striking contrast with the atrocities of the Mortara case. The Consul, M. MEJAN, states to Mr. SIMPSON that he has received orders from the French Government to use his influence, and even to take legal steps if necessary, for the purpose of restoring to Jewish custody a Hebrew orphan child called ALICE LEVY, "a child of French-Jewish parentage, who had been delivered to a charitable lady of New-Orleans, for the purpose of being educated in the Catholic religion contrary to the last disposition of her mother, who had expressed the desire that the child should be educated in the Jewish faith." It appears that the grandmother of the girl had memorialized the French Minister for Foreign Affairs on the subject, stating that the delivery of the child to the Jewish Asylum had been demanded and refused. Count MEJAN, in obedience to his instructions, immediately applied himself to an investigation of the facts, when he found that, in the interim, the girl ALICE had been surrendered to the authorities of the Jewish Orphan Institution. He, nevertheless, writes to Mr. SIMPSON, the President of the Asylum, to obtain his assurance that such surrender had in fact been made.

The latter, in his reply to the Consul, acknowledges custody of the child and furnishes particulars of the case, which resemble in some respects, that of MORTARA'S boy:

"Mrs. LEVY, the mother of said child, died in the early part of September last. During her sickness she was attended by Israelites, and on her demise she was buried with the Jewish rites in a Jewish cemetery. Prior to her death she expressed a desire to have her orphan child ALICE, then about sixteen months old, placed in the Jewish Widows' and Orphans' Home. The nurse having charge of said child pleaded that she was much attached to it, and asked permission to keep it about a week longer, when she would deliver it to the custody of the Home. She, however, did not keep her promise, and her residence being unknown, some time elapsed before the whereabouts of the child could be discovered.

It then appeared that the nurse had meanwhile applied to Mrs. Capdeville and represented to this lady that the said orphan had been abandoned and was without protection. Mrs. Capdeville thereupon made suitable provisions for the maintenance of the child, and had it baptized in the Catholic religion. It is conceded that this estimable lady acted from purely charitable motives and, what appeared to her, a sense of duty; for, although she refused to give up the child when first demanded by the Chairman of our Committee on Application and Relief, yet, when called upon by the undersigned to surrender said orphan to its legitimate guardians, she complied with the request and regretted the unpleasantness that had placed her in so unpleasant an attitude.

The said orphan has been an inmate of our Institution since the 28th of December last. In common with other Jewish orphans, it will enjoy the benefits of our Asylum, and special care will be taken to raise it in the religious faith of its parents."

It is gratifying to note the testimony here borne to the greater liberality of feeling evinced in this affair by the Roman Catholic lady than was exhibited in the MORTARA matter by the Roman Government—a difference, however, for which the free institutions of this country will not fail in a great measure to account. Why the grandmother should have deemed it necessary to apply to the French Government for justice, when the tribunals of Louisiana and the aid of her brethren in that State were available to her, it is difficult to divine. But the readiness with which Count WALEWSKI responded to such an appeal, referring it to the only tribunals capable of dealing with it, and assuming for the Government of the Emperor the expense of the suggested suit, is significant and praiseworthy. NAPOLEON manifests a resolution to protect his subjects wherever they may be, and without unnecessarily infringing on the laws or usages of the States wherein such protection is needed. He has also thus indirectly, but no less positively repeated, even in this obscure instance, his abhorrence of the flagrant MORTARA outrage.

New Direction of the Popular Taste—Growing Demand for Works on Natural History.

No person familiar with current literature has failed to notice its increasing attention lately to Natural History. This attention is not directed so much to the traits of the more dignified families of animals as to the oddities and whimsicalities of nature; to the curiosities of her handiwork in the humbler branches, along the very twigs of the tree of life; to the queer things that have seldom been deemed worthy of study; to researches into the meaning, use and appliances of those common objects, which, lying along every path, philosophers and fools have regarded with the same unconcern. The most attractive feature of DICKENS Household Words was its articles about "Eggs," "Owls" and "The World of Insects." Nothing has more contributed to make Chambers' Journal welcome than its frequent papers on kindred homely topics. BLACKWOOD'S best latter-day reputation depends from Prof. JOHNSON'S papers on the "Chemistry of Common Life" and the charming contributions of the author of "The New Seaside Studies." The London and Edinburgh Quarterlies, by their spirited reproduction in little of the monographs of modern naturalists are recovering the popular favor which their eternal criticisms of COLERIDGE and WORDSWORTH, MILTON and ÆSCHYLUS, and the classics, ancient and British, were threatening to rout forever. Our own literary periodicals respond to the new demand, and cater never so successfully as when they set out, garnished with pertinent pleasantry and humor, new facts gathered by fresh observers or old fancies filtered of their absurdities, for the gratification of the growing taste for natural science. Always excepting the autocrat and the professor, whose instincts lead them to ramble below high-water mark on the shore of psychology rather than of the salt sea, and to fetch up and submit to their microscope mollusks from the mud of meditation and fuci from the drift of fancy rather than substantial clams, winkles, mussels and seaweed from the substantial shore—excepting always theirs, the choicest articles in the Atlantic Monthly have been those that treated of birds, beasts, and the far lower developments of life in things which seemed to have none. The illustrated papers have at last disposed of their worn-out cuts of ants and bees, which, after doing good service in the Penny Magazine, have been turning up at brief intervals ever since as a sort of corned or pickled sacrifice to natural science. They, too reflecting the fashion of the times, are at once quickening and gratifying curiosity by illustrations of anemones that, anchored at one end, sweep all their reach, like office-holders, for plunder;—of the zoophyte, (syrapta,) which, when hard pressed by famine, spontaneously amputates piece after piece from its least-needed end, and so fattens the remnant on that which the whole body would have starved on,—of a thousand such like curiosities of sea or shore, that till lately have been wasting unknown and unpictured.

Now all these indications of a returning love for Nature, we hail as hopeful auguries. They look as if the dollar were kicking the beam at last. For so seductive and enchanting is Nature, that those who dally with her ever so briefly learn soon to love knowledge for its own sake, and ever afterwards carry in their breast a sweet content which makes a little money go a great ways The lover of Nature maintains a merry mood though on very short feed. He has a full cup at all seasons, since Summer spawns new objects of admiration at every hour, and it takes Winter to, reveal how every delicate Summer-liver tucks his little life away in gray cocoons, and snuggles under the edges of clap-boards, in the angles of fences, and under the bark of bare trees. We feel that special thanks are due to all that genial tribe of "still, quiet bodies, who havn't a bit of harm in them," of the style of GILBERT WHITE, of Selborne, who have made acquaintances for us in every hedge, frog-pond and bush. The Rev. J. G. WOOD, WHITE'S pleasant annotator, and the author of the "Common Objects of the Sea Shore" and "of the Land," we hold to be better entitled to a medal of honor than half the heroes we go mad about on holidays. FRANK BUCKLAND, if he ever came here, and we had our way, should have the freedom of the City presented him in a gold snuff-box, made in the similitude of the abused rat whom he elevated from a hopeless nuisance up to the dignity of a Health Warden and scavenger. GOSSE, who made the Aquarium a popular institution, has made two spires of home comfort to grow where there was but one before. KINGSLAND, for introducing it favorably to the notice of the haughtiest of circles—the literati, and so medicating with rare and costly knowledge the very reservoir out of which the people's reading is drawn, deserves a civic crown.

The next need in this direction is that some one will do for the tribes of insects what GOSSE and KINGSLAND did for the sub-aqueous small fry. We want a cheap "Larvarium" in which to hatch moths and butterflies out of the tufts of cobwebs in the corners, that housewives abhor, in which to grow the tiny eggs that adhere to the leaves of plants, and underlie the turf, into spiders, worms and flies, and so unveil the mystery of the lives of these total strangers that still are in and out of our doors daily. The inclosed rear-yard of every city lot conceals a grand menagerie of rare animals, just as rare and as little known as if they only bred in Africa, whose metamorphoses are well worth watching. A little puerile Gunny Bags conceives all such pursuits to be; but, without their crowning success in full view, BEN FRANKLIN'S kite flying and BACON'S "experiments, solitary and in consort," seem equally childish and unworthy of stalwart men. Before Summer has fairly opened we hope to hear of Larvaria as plenty in the market as Aquaria. They would be as ornamental in the parlor, as instructive and infinitely amusing.

No one will imagine that we expect an aquarium filled with muddy water, and stocked with sick stickleback and famished hermit-crabs to make a naturalist out of its proprietor; nor even if he surrenders an occasional Saturday afternoon to exploring the Gowanus flats for caddis-worms, or to searching at low water among the tangle, wrack and stones of the Staten Island shores for anemones, (which probably he won't find there,) that the laurels of QUATREFAGES rambling along the shores of Sicily, or of FERGUSON cruising on the coast of Scotland, are in any peril of fading in his favor. Still, one slug known from the egg to the end, one moth personally observed from the hatching of the larva to the death of the imago, makes a memorable chapter in one's education. The moral effects of such studies are on all hands recognized and welcomed. They are no less wholesome physically—drawing irresistebly old and young into the open air, to the fields, the woods, and the beach. When they become fashionable, gymnasiums will fall into decay, and we shall hear less lay preaching about the necessity of exercise for sedentary folks.

THE WAR-QUESTION.

The State of Europe and the Position of the Emperor of France.

To the Editor of the New York Times.

One means which is sometimes very successfully employed to bring about a desired end seems now to be in general use on both sides of the Atlantic. It is to set afloat, and keep upon the surface of the general mind the phantom "Inevitability." War is inevitable, men cry. So is doomsday, might be the answer. That war upon the continent of Europe is as sure to happen as that the existence of the French Emperor shall endure, no one who has watched and well examined the character and history of that individual can doubt; but that war must of necessity immediately come out of actually existing facts is by no means logically apparent. Not merely for self preservation, but also for another object hardly less dear, Napoleon, sooner or later, his own time chosen, must and will put himself at the head of an armed host. A few years ago he was nobody and alone: now he is an Emperor, but still he stands alone. Like a gambler who began his game on credit and reached the pinnacle of fortune, he feels that he can afford greater risks than any fellow-player, possessed of original capital, would dare. Like that same gambler, too, who ventured, when to pay forfeit, had he lost, would have been beyond his honest means, he has no longer a mind conscious of right, nor can he pause in his career. He has no brother, and he is like no brother. Among his kinsfolk there is no one on whom he can rely for help or counsel in the hour of need. In France he has no party. No blood of a Saint Louis runs in his veins. He is the representative of a Corsican adventurer, and he knows that no man loves him. If the first NAPOLEON—the hero of a hundred battle fields—found in his extremity but a few faithful followers to do him reverence, what can I, he asks himself, I, who have usurped a throne by violence, and as yet done nothing more, look to have, should thick darkness come between me and my star before I have made my mark upon the present century? A mark, therefore, he has resolved to make. Were he a truly wise man he would give to France an independent Senate and House of Delegates, nor would he refuse a suitably free Press. But he will have none of these things. The mark he hopes to make is that which the sword alone leaves. His ambition is to be a great captain. But his special talent is the power of waiting. And it is this which leads me to believe that the time for hostilities has not yet arrived. The experience which he gained at Strasbourg and Boulogne was not lost on him. This he showed in 1851. He is not a man to pluck, schoolboy fashion, fruit before it is ripe.

France is not ready for battle; her finances are in a condition hardly better than those of Austria. Nor is public opinion in the Empire at all prepared for war. The Peace Congress will take place. Austria requires that Piedmont disarms, offering herself to do the same thing. On this point Piedmont must yield. The general sense of civilization will exact a reform as to the administration of the interior States of Italy. Then will come the time for Austria to make her submission, and, as the Powers of Europe have declared that the treaties of 1815 shall not be destroyed in their territorial settlements, Lombardy and Venice will remain as they are under Austrian dominion, and a quasi peaceful arrangement will ensue.

Again, then, will the waiting talent of NAPOLEON be called into requisition, and again will the world be filled with wonder as to what he will next do. While he shall live there will be no peace for Europe. Some pretext of quarrel will be found or made for getting up a continental war. The French Emperor is the most complete statesman, and, what does not always or necessarily attend the character of a statesman, the most finished and artful intriguer alive. That which the first NAPOLEON accomplished by a violent blow, he produces by an irresistible, continuous, heavy, well directed pressure. Never till the last moment—a moment which his lucky star, he believes, is preparing for him—will he cease to hug the English alliance to his heart; but that moment once arrived, and his now peaceful brow encircled with a warrior's halo, Waterloo will be avenged, or, it may be, the attempt at vengeance will furnish forth another imperial tenant of another sea-girt prison. But before all this, that loosely-jointed monster of rapacity, Austria, must go through the fiery furnace which her own hands have been heating against the advent of her tormentor. NAPOLEON, if my private letters instruct me aright, has no intention of subjecting her to the final ordeal at once. Indian like, he is now only preparing her for the sacrifice by extracting the life from her muscle and wearying the spirit within her.

Notwithstanding the "inevitability of immediate war," which is rung in our ears at every arrival from Europe, appearances are, to my mind, in favor of a continuation of peace for a considerable time to come. True, there are those in high places whose hopes and hearts incline them to war, and true also is it that the hard hand of an apparent necessity is continually urging on the Italian question to a bloody conclusion; but for the present war is prevented, and for a while yet will be prevented by the prodigious accumulation of mere material interests throughout Europe, to say nothing of moral causes, for the preservation of peace. Moreover, there is ever floating in the French mind a ghastly possibility—for what has been may again be—the phantom of a third coalition, followed by a third invasion, whose end no man can foretell. At the bottom of the heart of Europe, France is feared and hated, and who knows but that which was logically and loyally begun by her Emperor, in the hope of putting Austria in her place, and of restoring to Italy her rights, might not, through excess of zeal and insane ambition, be turned to his own destruction.

I well know that without Russia, every coalition against France would weakly fail; and I have reason to believe that, should the world proceed to blows straightway, Russia would at the critical moment take the side of France, though with the understanding that only in the East would she act; or, at most, threaten the Hungarian frontier. But this would endure only for a day. Who has forgotten the relations between France and Russia, and their sudden changes, during the reign of Napoleon I?

If the French Emperor would not have war immediately, which I believe to be the fact, for public opinion in France and elsewhere, which he wisely wishes to have at his back, is not yet ready for a bloody bout, the Austrian potentate would gladly stave it off forever, unless, as some suppose, his intellect was seriously impaired by the assassin's blow upon the spine, which so nearly terminated his life some few years ago. Without mentioning other dissuasives from war, which powerfully operate, the condition of Hungary must be a ceaseless source of fearful forebodings. In that country is the national anti-Austrian and the plebeian-Democratic spirit and party. The latter may be flattered and seduced by Imperial artifice, in case of a war of nations, into a harmless state of quiescence, but that is a very doubtful matter. Should the national interest prevail, a successful insurrection, backed by France, could forever dislodge the Crown of St. Stephen from the heads of FRANCIS JOSEPH and his successors; but, on the other hand, if, when the time shall come, as come it will, the Hungarian proves false to himself, the Austrian Empire may endure in all its iniquitous proportions, for generations beyond the guess of m

CITY INTELLIGENCE.

MEETING OF THE NEW-YORK CURRENCY BOARD—MR. ODYKE ON THE LEGISLATURE.—At the meeting of this Board last evening, in the Committee Room at Clinton Hall, the Hon. GEORGE OPDYKE read an address on the subject of the currency, in which he advocated the following measures of reform in the present system of banking: First, amendments of the General Banking law, limiting the discount lines of all the banks in this State to an amount not exceeding one and a half their respective capital and specie reserve, and fixing the minimum of specie at twenty per cent of their immediate liabilities. Secondly, requiring the whole capital to be paid up in specie before commencing business, and forbidding loans on their own stock. Thirdly, the suppression of the circulation of small bills, whether by the State or the General Government. Fourthly, the repeal of the Usury laws. These views were obscured by reference to the expansion of the currency, and of its effects upon the domestic and foreign commerce of the country. The speaker also took occasion to explain the difficulties which beset the legislation on these subjects in the last Legislature—prominent among which was the all-powerful influence of the Banks upon the country members. The Republicans, he thought, were not as sound upon these questions as the Democrats; and the Speaker of the Assembly was taken to task for his alleged unfair and unparliamentary ruling, and appointment of Committees. The lobby were also referred to as an unscrupulous and hungry crowd who, happily, were turned away more empty and hungry than when they came, partly through the efforts of himself and colleagues. Hon. J. M. CHANLER made a few remarks in the same direction, apologizing that, on account of illness, he had not been able to prepare any set form of speech. Mr. CONKLING also spoke a few moments upon the general subject. A vote of thanks was passed to Mr. OPDYKE for his address. On motion of WILSON G. HUNT, the Secretary was requested to invite Mr. CORDEN to deliver an address before the Board previous to his leaving the country. A Committee, consisting of Messrs. OPDYKE, HUNT and EDDY, was appointed to examine into the subject of the present danger of Bank expansion, and of its effects upon the foreign commerce of this country, and report at the next meeting.

BOARD OF EDUCATION.—At the meeting of the Board of Education last evening, a resolution, offered by Mr. GREEN, directing the Committee on Sites and School-houses to make inquiries and report to the Board with regard to the proper location for a school for colored children, was carried. The Board went into Committee of the Whole on the report from the Executive Committee on Normal Schools, proposing the organization of a daily normal school for females. A long debate with regard to the details of the plan of the propsed school ensued, and the Committee reported progress. The further consideration of the subject was made the special order for the next meeting. The Committee on Sites and School-houses reported a resolution in favor of authorizing the School Officers of the Third Ward to hire the premises Nos. 57 and 59 Robinson-street, at a rent not exceeding $1,200, for eight years, and to expend $2,000 in fitting them up, under the direction of the Committee on Repairs and Supplies, for a new primary school. Considerable debate followed with regard to the propriety of establishing a school in the Third Ward where, it was claimed, there would be nothing but stores in a few years, and the resolution was amended slightly, and adopted. A communication was received from the School Officers of the Fifteenth Ward, asking an appropriation of $4,097 for fitting up and furnishing Ward School No. 10, on Wooster-street. The Board authorized the appropriation, and after the transaction of some routine business, adjourned.

TRIAL OF STEAM FIRE-ENGINES.—The "John G. Storm," one of the steam fire-engines belonging to the City, had its locomotive capacity tested on Tuesday, on the occasion of the trial of engines at Williamsburgh. It propelled itself, carrying its company, fuel, hose, and other apparatus, in going and returning a distance of nearly ten miles, running over some of the worst conditioned streets in the City. It ran from Hamilton Ferry through Hamilton-avenue, Court and Washington streets to Sands-street; thence following the track of the Williamsburgh Railroad nearly to the place of trial, returning by Houston Ferry, Second-street, and the Bowery. It made the trip without the slightest accident, and showed its superior power in throwing large bodies of water by projecting a 1⅛-inch stream about 170 feet in perpendicular height, and a 2¼-inch stream 175 feet horizontally. The latter performance was in playing from a cistern, without the aid of the Ridgewood pressure.

REORGANIZATION OF THE TAX COMMISSIONERS.—The Tax Commissioners were duly sworn in yesterday, and the Board reorganized by the unanimous election of AMOS J. WILLIAMSON as President. The present Deputies and Clerks were temporarily reappointed, until the completion of the tax rolls for 1859, as the gentlemen who have been engaged for some months in making them up can finish the work better than new men. A vacancy, occasioned by the death of HENRY V. LOVELL, was filled by the appointment of RICHARD MOTT. The salaries and expenses of the office remain the same as for the past two years, with the exception of the Assessors of Corporation Improvements, who are to receive $2,000 a year each, instead of fees amounting to $4,000. The expenses of the office for 1858 were nearly $60,000.

TRIAL TRIP OF THE GENERAL ADMIRAL.—The Russian frigate General Admiral went on an engineer's trial trip yesterday, passing down the East River about 10 o'clock A. M. Her noble appearance, as she slowly steamed her way past the City, attracted large numbers to the piers to observe her departure, to whom she was the subject of admiring comments. Upon her return she will go to the Collins dock, at the foot of Canal-street, where she will be fully equipped and provisioned for her voyage to Russia. She is to go to Cronstadt, under the command of Captain JOSEPH COMSTOCK, with an entire American crew, by whom she will be delivered to the Russian Government.

THE FOURTEENTH-STREET POISONING CASE.—MARGARET BURKE, the servant girl who was arrested a few days since, on a charge of having poisoned Mrs. BERTHAM and FAYETTE ROBINSON, is still confined in the Tombs. It is not probable that a re-examination of witnesses will be entered upon. The case will probably be submitted to the Grand Jury upon the evidence taken before the Coroner's Jury. Justice WELSH, by whom she was recommitted, will give his decision in the matter to-day.

SUICIDE ON ACCOUNT OF HIS WIFE'S DESERTION.—JOHANN SMIDT, a German, who resided at No. 38 Reade-street, committed suicide yesterday, by taking laudanum. It is said that he took it because his wife had deserted him. His wife left a few days ago, giving as a reason that he did not earn money enough to dress her in a style adapted to her taste and wishes. Coroner SCHIRMER held an inquest in the case, and a verdict was rendered in accordance with the above facts.

EUCLEIAN SOCIETY.—The Eucleian Society of the New-York University has completed the arrangements for celebrating its anniversary on the 27th of June. The Rev. Dr. JOSEPH P. THOMPSON, of the Broadway Tabernacle, will deliver the oration on that occasion, and HENRY M. PIERCE, Esq., Principal of Rutgers' Institute, will read a poem. The exercises will be held in the large chapel of the University on the last Monday before Commencement.

LETTERS FOR THE BRAZIL STATION.—Letter-bags for the Brazil Squadron will be made up at the Naval Lyceum, Brooklyn Navy-yard, to go by the brig Bonito, expected to sail on Monday or Tuesday next for Rio de Janeiro. Letters and packages for officers and others attached to the squadron will be duly forwarded if delivered as above.

A CHILD BURNED TO DEATH.—MARY E. BURCHALL, a child two years old, whose parents reside at No. 18 Cherry-street, yesterday was fatally burned by her clothes taking fire from the ignition of some matches which she was playing with. An inquest was held by one of the Coroners, and a verdict rendered accordingly.

LECTURES.—Mr. DE CORDOVA'S services as lecturer to the Congregation of Reformed Jews, worshiping in Twelfth-street, between Third and Fourth avenues, have been reëngaged for the current year. Mr. DE CORDOVA will lecture every third Saturday morning, beginning on the 14th inst.

"Luther and the Reformation" forms the subject of Mr. LORD'S lecture this evening, at Clinton Hall. To-morrow evening Mr. LORD commences his course at the Athenæum in Brooklyn.

HUDSON RIVER STEAMERS.—The steamer Thomas Powell has been withdrawn from the daily route on the Hudson for a few days, in order to make improvements in the chimneys.

Police Reports.

A LAWYER CHARGED WITH SWINDLING.—Thos Bunnor, a lawyer, was committed to the Tombs, yesterday, on a charge of having swindled Thomas O'Connor, of No. 44 Worth-street, out of $187 50, by falsely representing that he was authorized to lease a dwelling corner of University-place and Twelfth-street. Mr. O'Connor, believing the statement of Bunnor, hired the house, paid three months' rent in advance, and took possession, when he was ejected by the owner.

RESISTING A DEPUTY SHERIFF.—George E. Mulford was held to bail yesterday by Justice WELSH, to answer a charge of resisting a deputy sheriff. Under a writ of replevin, granted at the suit of A. T. Stewart & Co., Deputy Sheriff Bernard Reilly was removing goods from a house in Thirty-sixth-street, when the accused, as is alleged, interfered and threatened violence.

COUNTERFEIT MONEY.—A German, named Louis Ahrens, was arrested yesterday, charged with attempting to pass a counterfeit $10 bill on the Mechanics' Bank of New-Haven in payment for some crockery. An ineffectual effort was made to effect his release on a writ of habeas corpus. Justice CONNOLLY committed him to the Tombs.

FORTUNATE RECOVERY.—N. B. Perry, of Tompkins County, asked Justice WELSH yesterday to send an officer to a house of ill-fame in Howard-street, to recover a gold watch and $211, which had been stolen from him by one of the inmates. An officer was sent, and the money and watch recovered. Mr. Perry declared that he had had a good lesson.

Changes in the Almshouse Department.

Not a little curiosity is felt to know what the changes which were made on Thursday in the administration of the different departments of the Almshouse at the meeting of the Governors on Tuesday evening. Although a day has done but little towards revealing the hidden causes of the wholesale removals and transfers then perpetrated, it is easy to tell who have been decapitated.

First, as to the changes effected by Governor GUNTHER'S resolutions, N. P. ANDERSON, who was transferred from his position as storekeeper at Blackwell's Island, has discharged the duties of that office since the organization of the Board of Governors in 1849. No specific charges of incompetency or want of fidelity were made against him. He is offered a clerkship in the Lunatic Asylum. ROBERT G. WALMSLY has been in the Department for four or five years, the larger part of which time he was clerk at Randall's Island. For the last year he has filled the position of Storekeeper there, and is now promoted to the Wardenship of the Penitentiary. JOHN FITCH has been in the department since its organization. He first acted as Warden of the Almshouse. In '55 he was transferred to the Wardenship of the Penitentiary, and now by Governor GUNTHER'S resolutions is offered the position of Storekeeper at Blackwell's Island.

On motion of Gov. OLIVER, JOSEPH KEEN, who has acted as Superintendent of the Workhouse for four years, was transferred to the store-keepership of Randall's Island. He has also been in the Department since its organization. He was Superintendent of the Penitentiary for some years. THOMAS J. MARSHALL, who was transferred from the Clerkship of the Almshouse to the Clerkship of the Workhouse, has been in the Department some years. CHARLES W. SMITH has been Clerk of the Workhouse since the organization of the Board. He is summarily decapitated, though it is claimed that he is one of the most efficient men on the Island. THOMAS B. TAPPAN transferred from the Wardenship of Randall's Island to the Clerkship of the Almshouse, was formerly an Alderman. On the organization of the Almshouse Department he was elected Storekeeper, and afterwards Warden at Randall's Island, which office he has filled for nearly two years.

Gov. BRUENINGHAUSEN assumed the responsibility of but one removal. JONATHAN STEARNS in 1849 was elected Warden at Randall's Island. For four years he has had charge of the Workhouse. He is a man of about 70 years of age, and it is said is now on his death bed. MOSES B. CRASTO, the newly-elected Warden of Randall's Island, has been a prominent Know-Nothing. Lately he has worked with the Democrats. CHARLES B. DEGRACK was elected to the responsible position of Warden of the Almshouse. STEPHEN H. DREW has been promoted from the position of being clerk to the Storekeeper on Blackwell's Island to the position of Superintendent of the Workhouse. CHAS. HENRY was elected Storekeeper of Blackwell's Island, and EDWARD A. EBBETTS Clerk of Bellevue.

Wholesale as these changes are, it is said others were in contemplation, such as the removal of CHARLES SUTTON from the Wardenship of the City Prison. In some way the programme became deranged and the work was stayed.

Gen. TOWNSEND continues to denounce the proceedings earnestly. He says that they were, throughout, the result of political scheming, without regard to the fitness of candidates or the interests of the public. It is his deliberate determination to work from this time forth for the disbanding of the Department, as he firmly believes its power for good is gone. He says, further, that he is determined to sift the matter to the bottom, to see what motives were at work in effecting this revolution which he considers so disastrous.

Only once before have there been changes of this character in the administration of the Institutions attempted, and then there were no efforts made to degrade old officers.

Mr. ELDRIDGE in 1855 was transferred from the Wardenship of the Workhouse to that of Randall's Island; Col. STEARNS from the Wardenship of Randall's Island to that of the Almshouse, and Mr. KEEN from the Wardenship of the Penitentiary to that of the Workhouse.

Commissioners of Emigration.

THE WEEKLY STATEMENT—CASTLE GARDEN AND THE RAILROADS.

The Board met, yesterday afternoon, at the usual hour. The weekly report states that 1,466 emigrants arrived during the week ending yesterday, making a total for the year of 11,194, against 12,487 to the same date last year. There are 824 inmates in the institutions on Ward's Island, and 36 in the Marine Hospital. The aggregate receipts from the commutation of passengers have amounted to $23,735 84. The expenses have run up to $49,878 57, showing an overdraft of $20,486 45.

A communication was read from John E. Devlin, Esq., Counsel for the Board, giving it as his opinion, that the Commissioners were not responsible for the expense of placing buoys at Upper and Lower Quarantine.

Mr. Archibald, the British Consul, sent in a communication transmitting $77 24, which had been collected through his instrumentality of Sabel & Searle and of G. V. Ochlhaffer, for amount of passage orders fraudulently issued. A vote of thanks was returned Mr. Archibald for the trouble he had taken, as well as for some documents which he presented the Commissioners.

The Committee on making the new arrangements with the Railroad Companies for selling tickets in Castle Garden, reported that they had failed to make any arrangement with the Pennsylvania Central and Baltimore and Ohio Railroads; all others will be represented in the Garden. They recommend that passengers be landed after the 15th of May at Castle Garden at the expense of vessels bringing them; that the passengers have all the aid which can be given them in taking charge of baggage, but that the Commissioners shall not be at all responsible for losses or disputes as to ownership. They further recommend that an agreement be made with the New York Central and New-York and Erie Railroads, it being understood that they represent the Hudson River Railroad and the People's line of steamboats with their different connections, for the privilege of selling tickets in the Garden, on condition that said roads sell tickets at as low rates as they can be obtained outside; that the roads be responsible for the safe delivery of baggage landed at the Garden, and assume the expense of handling it until delivered; that they pay the rent of the Garden, ($12 000 per annum,) and for the gas and water used. Any employe of the roads who may transcend his duties is to be excluded from Castle at the option of the Commissioners. It is also understood that the Commissioners do not relinquish the absolute control of the building in making this agreement with the Railroad Companies. The report concludes with a resolution directing the Counsel to the Board to draw up a contract in accordance with the above provisions.

Mr. JELLINGHAUS, on a motion being made to adopt the report, objected, as he desired to present a minority report. The booking system, as adopted by the Erie Railroad, he considered an outrage on the emigrants. After an informal and somewhat earnest discussion, the majority report was adopted and the Board adjourned.

BROOKLYN INTELLIGENCE.

BOARD OF SUPERVISORS.—The first meeting of the new Board of Supervisors was held in the County Jail yesterday afternoon. Twenty-three of the 24 members composing the Board were present. The first business introduced was that of electing a Chairman. Supervisor DELVECCHIO, of the Sixth Ward, was the regular Democratic nominee for the office, and Supervisor SMITH, of the Tenth Ward, was supported by the Opposition, and those Democrats who do not consider caucus nominations binding. On the first ballot Mr. SMITH received 14 votes and Mr. DELVECCHIO 9. The election of Mr. SMITH was made unanimous, on motion of Mr. DELVECCHIO. The rules of the old Board were adopted for the government of the new, on motion of Supervisor CROOK. Several bills were presented and laid on the table to be referred when the Standing Committees are appointed. The Chairman stated that he would announce the Committees at the next meeting. The Board then adjourned for one week.

BOARD OF EDUCATION.—The regular monthly meeting of this Board was held Tuesday evening. After the preliminary business had been disposed of, Mr. FIELD offered appropriate resolutions in relation to the death of CHAS. F. TUTTLE. Remarks were made by Messrs. FIELD, BURR, THORNE, CROWELL and HARRIS, when the resolutions were unanimously adopted. The Teachers' Committee submitted a report of resignations, appointment of teachers, &c., which was adopted, viz.:

Resignations—No. 7, Miss Sarah F. Buckelew; No. 11, M. B. F. Libbey; No. 13, Miss J. B. Higgins; No. 13, Miss J. C. McDiermid; No. 13, Miss J. Halsted; No. 15, Miss M. Allen; No. 25, Miss M. Kendall; No. 25, Miss L. E. Bridgham; No. 28, Miss M. Clarke; No. 22, Miss Fannie Parton; No. 5, Miss J. E. Howe; No. 7, Mr. Halsey.

Promotions—No. 8, Miss Sarah G. Swain vice Miss Mumford, until after vacation. No. 16, Mrs. Cowperthwaite, vice Miss Allen, resigned. No. 16, Miss E. Miles, vice Miss Cowperthwaite, promoted. No. 16, Miss Julia Michaels, vice Miss Miles, promoted. No. 28, Miss Louisa S. Freneh, vice Miss Kendall, resigned. No. 25, Miss Annie G. Hood, vice Miss French, promoted. No. 25, Miss M. W. McClaughy, vice Miss Meserole, promoted.

Appointments—No. 8, Miss Anne A. Warren, vice Miss Swain, until after the Summer vacation. No. 25, Miss Mary E. Boynton, vice Miss Hood, promoted.

A resolution was adopted directing the appointment of a Committee, with power to examine, and with the aid of counsel to adjust, litigate, settle and pay the award, if any, that may be made against the Board in favor of the Brooklyn Orphan Asylum, under the act of the Legislature providing for a distributive share of the Public School moneys to be paid to these asylums, and that warrants for the amounts which may be due be drawn by the officers, on the order of said Committee.

The Board adjourned for one month.

THE WIFE-POISONING CASE.—A post-mortem examination of the body of Mrs. BERMAN, who died at a house in Navy-street in February last, was made yesterday under the direction of Coroner HORTON. The body was found to be in an excellent state of preservation, which fact seems to give some vitality to the supposition that her death was caused by poison. The stomach was removed and sent to Dr. CHILTON, in New-York, who will analyze the contents. The husband of deceased, who is in custody, will be committed to Tall to await the result of the investigation.

ATTEMPTED SUICIDE.—A German named HARMAN SOELLER, in the Eastern District, a few days ago resolved to commit suicide. He applied to a druggist for arsenic, but the druggist had his suspicions aroused, and instead of the poison furnished him with a paper of powdered chalk. HARMAN went home, swallowed the chalk, and then yelled lustily for assistance. He was promptly relieved, and is now doing as well as could be expected under the circumstances.

COMMON COUNCIL.—A meeting of this body has been called by the Mayor for this evening, when another effort will be made to organize.

Obituary.

The Hon. J. PHILLIPS PHOENIX died at his residence in this City yesterday morning. Mr. PHOENIX was a native of New-Jersey, but passed most of his life in this City, where he was for many years engaged in mercantile pursuits. He took an active part in politics, and was elected to Congress by the Whigs of the lower District of New-York in 1843, and again in 1849. In 1848, he was elected to the State Assembly, from the same District. Latterly, he had wholly withdrawn from public life. Mr. PHOENIX married a daughter of Mr. STEPHEN WHITNEY.

Mr. Horatio Gates Jones of Montreal, was killed during the insurrection at Valparaiso on the 28th February. He left home at an early age, and settled in Valparaiso, where he married.

You who have Influenza, Hacking Coughs, and Colds, with weariness, read:

When the natural outlets for the waste matters of the blood are closed or obstructed, disease at once makes its appearance. It may be headache or dyspepsia, or dizziness, or the mental impressions may be disordered, or fever sets in, or scrofula or cancer commences, or croup, or worms are generated, or epilepsy comes on, or rheumatism, dysentery or colic rack the body. Now BRANDRETH'S PILLS seem to have been adapted by nature to remove all these difficulties; for while they cannot injure, they are sufficiently powerful to open all the natural outlets for the blood's impurities to pass off, and the body is at once relieved from all oppression, and health lightens what disease has made dark!

BRANDRETH'S PILLS are sold at 25 cents a box, with full directions, at No. 294 Canal-st., and by all druggists.

Herring's Patent Champion Fire and Burglar-proof Safes, with HALL'S Patent Powder-proof Locks, the same that were awarded separate medals at the World's Fair, London, 1851, and the World's Fair, New-York, 1853, and are the only American Safes that were awarded medals at the London World's Fair.

These Safes form the most perfect security against fire and burglars, of any safe ever offered to the public.

$1,000 REWARD will be paid to any person that can show a HERRING'S PATENT CHAMPION SAFE ever failed to preserve its contents in an accidental fire.

The subscribers also manufacture all kinds of Boiler and Chilled Iron Bank Chests and Vaults, Vault Doors, and Money Boxes or Chests, for brokers, jewelers, and private families, for plate, diamonds, and other valuables.

Burnett's Cocoaine.

The original and only genuine preparation of this name, manufactured by Messrs. JOSEPH BURNETT & CO., Boston, for sale by T. T. GREEN, No. 862 Broadway.

Cocoaine.

From the high respectability and great skill of Mr. Burnett as a chemist, we herald with pleasure the introduction of anything coming from his hands. His celebrated toilet preparations have already extended his popularity from one part of the Union to the other; and one result of their excellence is that those who use them once are always sure to give them the preference as standard articles for the toilet. Aside from their elegance, they are believed to be positive specifics for the purposes for which they are recommended.—Attleboro Gazette.

To Restore is Better than to Dye.—The Boston Traveller says: "A preparation has at last been discovered which restores the natural color of the hair by acting upon its roots, and gives it back its original gloss and beauty. This no hair dye will do. If you wish to have the real color instead of the dull, rough looks which hair dye imparts, use HERESTREFF'S RESTORATIVE, which invigorates the roots of the hair and makes it young again, no matter how much it may be faded. There is no doubt that the old practice of dyeing the hair will rapidly give way before the merits of this preparation. Sold everywhere. Price, 50 cents a bottle.

BURNETT'S TOILET PREPARATIONS.
Of the many preparations that are thrown into the market for toilet purposes, we believe none can be found to excel those of the well known chemists, Messrs. JOSEPH BURNETT & CO., of Boston.
They are conceded by all who use them to be superior to most other preparations and are valued accordingly. The "Cocoaine" is enjoying a wide popularity in this City, and deservedly so. It is, in fact, pronounced incomparable as a hair-dressing.—Hartford Courant.

COUNTRY RESIDENCES.

A VERY BEAUTIFUL COUNTRY RESIDENCE for sale in the village of Madison, Morris County, N. J., contains about 11 acres of land, beautifully shaded with forest and evergreen trees, situated on high ground, within 10 minutes' walk of the depôt, abounds with all kinds of the most choice fruit; the mansion-house is large, built in the most substantial and finished in the best manner, with outrooms, hot and cold water throughout the house, and built at a cost of about $17,000. The out-buildings are in proportion to the mansion house. The location is unsurpassed, as it is the most noble and desirable property to be found in New Jersey or elsewhere, and is worthy any gentleman's notice who is desirous of a very superior residence. Price, $25,000—terms easy. Also, several small farms. One of 40 acres, within the village, also one with choice fruit, good buildings, fine lawn around the house, good garden, land in a high state of cultivation; ice-house filled for use, &c. Also, one farm, 206 acres; one, 341 acres. For particulars call on S. D. HUNTING, Waverley House, near the depôt, Madison. Also, beautiful building sites in the village.

FOR SALE—A VERY LARGE AND VALUABLE estate with extensive water power appurtenant, situate at Morrisville, Bucks County, Penn. This magnificent estate contains about 318 acres of land, of which nearly the entire part is valuable farm land under a high state of cultivation. The principal streets of the town of Morrisville run through the property, giving several thousand feet front for building purposes. There are fourteen buildings upon the property, all of which are rented. The farm has a mile front on the Philadelphia and Bristol Turnpike Road. The Delaware Division of the Pennsylvania Canal and the Philadelphia and Trenton Railroad run through this estate, affording every facility for access thereto, and for the shipping of produce, materials, &c. Morrisville is situated on the west bank of the Delaware River, immediately opposite to Trenton, N. J., with which place it is connected by a fine bridge. The improvements of the town are extending in the direction of this estate. The most valuable feature connected with this fine estate is the extensive water power, which is one of the finest on the River Delaware. At present it is used by a grist-mill and saw-mill. For the purposes of a saw-mill it is most admirably adapted. For information, apply to HENRY McOREA, No. 430 Walnut-st., Philadelphia.

WHEREAS, THE LA CROSSE AND MILWAUkee Railroad Company, a corporation duly constituted by the laws of the State of Wisconsin, on the 21st day of June, A. D. 1858, duly executed to the undersigned a Mortgage Deed for the purpose of securing the payment of Bonds to the amount of two millions of dollars, with the interest coupons thereto attached, which was recorded in the office of the Secretary of State of the State of Wisconsin, in the book of Railroad Mortgages, on pages 343 to 358 inclusive, on the 8th day of July, 1858; and, whereas, also, the said La Crosse and Milwaukee Railroad Company, on the 11th day of August, 1858, duly executed to the undersigned a Supplementary Mortgage or Trust Deed, for the purposes aforesaid, which was recorded in the office of the Secretary of State of the State of Wisconsin, in the book of Railroad Mortgages, on pages 349 to 361 inclusive, on the 1st day of September, 1858; whereby, also, the Railroad of said Company was described as commencing in the city of Milwaukee, and running from thence to La Crosse in said State, a distance of about two hundred miles, constructed and to be constructed, and, also, all the Railroad of said Company, commencing in the village of Madison in said State, and running from thence to Portage City in said State, a distance of about forty miles, constructed and to be constructed; and also other Railroads, built or to be built and constructed by said Company, or which they have a right to construct, by or under any corporate or other rights, privileges or franchises granted or given to said Company by the Legislature of the State of Wisconsin, or from any other source, or in any other manner whatever; including all and singular the several tracts, pieces or parcels of land which constituted, or might thereafter constitute, the site of the roadways, turn-outs, engine-houses, workshops, depots and other buildings, and all the other lines and real estate which constituted or might thereafter constitute, or be part of or appertain to said railroads; and including also, all and singular of the lots, land and real estate whatsoever which the said Company owned, or might thereafter acquire by purchase, grant, gift or otherwise in the cities of Milwaukee and La Crosse or in the vicinity of either of said cities, and all improvements made or thereafter to be made thereon, and all rights of dockage and wharfage, and all other riparian rights and privileges and franchises appertaining thereto, as particularly described in the various deeds of the same to said Company; and, also, all and singular the superstructure of said Railroads, whether then made and constructed, or thereafter to be constructed, and all the engine houses, workshops, depots and other buildings, and all other improvements on, or appertaining to, said Railroads, built or thereafter to be built and constructed; and, also, all and singular the locomotive engines and other rolling stock, and all the other equipments of every kind and description procured, or thereafter to be procured for, or used on said Railroads, and all the materials, tools, implements and utensils, and other personal property procured, or thereafter to be procured for, or used in connection with, said Railroads; and, also, all and singular the rights, liberties, privileges and franchises of said La Crosse and Milwaukee Railroad Company of every kind and description; and, also, all and singular the lands granted, or intended to be granted, to said La Crosse and Milwaukee Railroad Company, by, under or by virtue of the Act of Congress, approved June 3, 1856, entitled "An act granting Public Lands to the State of Wisconsin, to aid in the construction of railroads in said State," and the Act of the Legislature of the State of Wisconsin, approved Oct. 11, 1856, entitled "An act to accept certain lands to the La Crosse and Milwaukee Railroad Company, and to execute the trust created by an Act of Congress, entitled 'An Act granting public lands to the State of Wisconsin to aid in the construction of Railroads in said State,' approved June 3, 1856," together with all and singular the hereditaments and appurtenances belonging or in any wise appertaining to the said lands; and also, all and singular the bonds, bills of exchange, promissory notes, accounts, causes of action, demands and choses in action of whatsoever nature owned wholly or in part, by said Railroad Company, on such day as the said Railroad Company might first make default in the payment of the principal or interest which might thereafter become due on any of the said bonds issued by said Company under said trust deeds or mortgages; and all the property, real, personal and mixed, of said Railroad Company then acquired and vested, or thereafter to be acquired and vested, together with all the rights, liberties, privileges and franchises of said Railroad Company, and the supply and stock of said railroads had been entirely built, constructed and equipped, and the particular lands granted by the foregoing Acts of Congress and the Legislature of the State of Wisconsin, fully designated and duly patented and conveyed to said Railroad Company according to the provisions of the said Acts—were conveyed to the undersigned to be held by him in trust for and as security for the bondholders of said Company for the payment of the said bonds with the interest thereon secured by said Mortgage Deeds.

And whereas, by said Trust or Mortgage Deeds, it was provided that if said Railroad Company should make default for the space of fifteen days in the payment of any of the interest warrants or coupons accompanying the said bonds as they respectively became due, or if default for the like period should be made in the payment at maturity, of the principal sum of money mentioned in any of the said bonds secured by said Mortgage Deeds: then, and in either of said cases, the undersigned, as Trustee, was authorized, in his discretion, to enter into and take possession of all and singular the Railroads and all the other property, real, personal and mixed, covered or conveyed, or intended to be covered or conveyed, by said trust deeds, with all the rights, liberties, privileges and franchises of said Company, and to take and receive the income and profits thereof, and to sell all and singular said Railroads and said other property, real, personal and mixed, with all the rights, liberties, privileges and franchises of said Railroad Company, covered and conveyed, or intended to be covered or conveyed, by said mortgage deeds, either at public or private sale; and, also, that on the written request of the holder or holders of said bonds then outstanding to the amount, in the aggregate, of one hundred thousand dollars, the undersigned would proceed to make such sales and conveyances for the purpose of paying the outstanding bonds and the interest thereon; but in case of any sale at auction, it was provided that no lot of such intended sale should be published once in each week for three weeks at the least, in two newspapers published in the City of New-York, and in a newspaper published in the City of Milwaukee, and that on such sale the undersigned should execute and deliver to the purchaser or purchasers deeds and conveyances which should vest in such purchaser or purchasers all the estate, right, title and interest, whether legal or equitable, of the undersigned Trustee, and said Railroad Company of in, and to the said property, rights, liberties privileges and franchises, and every part and parcel thereof.

And whereas, the interest that became due on the 1st day of January, 1859, upon all of the bonds issued by said Company, secured by the Mortgage Deeds aforesaid, amounting to the sum of about ($70,000,) seventy thousand dollars, was not paid by said Company, when it became due, and said Company having made default in such payment for the space of more than fifteen days; and whereas also holders of said outstanding bonds, amounting in the aggregate to the sum of over one hundred thousand dollars, have duly requested, in writing, in compliance with said Mortgage Deeds, that the undersigned should proceed to make such sales and conveyances as aforesaid:

Now, therefore, notice is hereby given, that in pursuance of the authority vested in the undersigned by said Mortgage Deeds, I shall expose for sale at auction, to the highest bidder, in conformity to law, at the Court-House in the City of Milwaukee, in said State, on the 18th day of March, A.D., 1859, at 12 o'clock M. of that day, all and singular, the said Railroads, and real, personal and other property, of whatsoever nature, covered by said Trust Deeds, together with all the said rights, privileges and franchises appertaining thereto, and also all the corporate and other rights, privileges and franchises of said La Crosse and Milwaukee Railroad Company; or which may be included in, covered or conveyed, or intended to be covered or conveyed by said Mortgage Deeds, in order to pay the said outstanding bonds and interest, and the costs and expenses of this sale.

INSURANCE.

REPUBLIC INSURANCE COMPANY—NO. 116 WALL-ST.—ECONOMY AND SECURITY IN FIRE INSURANCE.—Fire Insurance, combining the mutual plan with the capital stock principle.

The charter of this Company requires that 80 per cent. of the profits shall be annually divided to the assured in scrip bearing interest.

This Company has been in operation for five years, during which time it has declared to its dealers one hundred and thirty-five and one-half per cent. of their premiums. They insure against loss and damage by fire at the lowest current rates of solvent Companies.

The security offered to insurers is an accumulating one, their surplus being now nearly as large as their capital.

All persons who may have held policies issued by this Company, expiring in 1854, 1855, 1856, 1857 or 1858, and have not received the scrip to which they may be entitled, are requested to call and take it, together with the interest which is payable annually in cash.

Under the charter, all scrip not called for in six years from its date of issue, enures to the Company.

MUSICAL.

THE DRIGGS' PATENT PIANO-FORTE OR THE VIOLIN PIANO.

It is built upon an iron frame, or bed plate, entirely sparate from the case, thus relieving the sound-boards and every other part of the instrument from the strain.

It will remain in tune for many months, and when the strings are settled even for years.

It has convex sounding-boards above and below, like the Violin, which are connected together in the same manner, thus making the entire instrument a vibratory shell.

It has greater depth and fullness of tone, and its sostenuto, or power of sustaining the tone, has never been equaled, except by instruments of the violin class.

It improves with age and use, becoming more vibratory, and the tone purer and more sonorous.

It is the best piano-forte existing, and is recommended by Gottschalk, Thalberg, and many other celebrated artists and professors. Sole agents,

The Troubles in Utah.

CORRESPONDENCE BETWEEN GOV. CUMMING AND GEN. JOHNSTON.

The following correspondence has passed between Gov. CUMMING and Gen. JOHNSTON in Utah. The reply of Gen. JOHNSTON to the Governor's remonstrance is sufficiently sharp and decisive.

Gov. Cumming to Gen. Johnston.

PROVO, U. T., March 21, 1859.

Gen. A. S. JOHNSTON—Sir: I arrived in this village on the 14th inst., and found a detachment of United States troops quartered in and around a house in which the Hon. JOHN CRADLEBAUGH, United States Judge, was holding Court for this District. The officer in command of the detachment occupying this house in an extraordinary position is a Captain of the Tenth Infantry, and still continues to occupy the position in opposition to reiterated protest from the inhabitants; and he has not deemed it necessary to report to me officially, although I have been six days in this village.

I have been informed that the Hon. Judge CRADLEBAUGH brought hither and retained the command, not from any "just reason to expect opposition," but for the purpose of confining and securing, under military guard, prisoners charged with criminal offences.

The Mayor of Provo has officially informed me that the civil authorities here are now, and have been, prepared and ready to securely and safely keep all prisoners arrested for trial at this Court, and the detention of any other persons whose presence may be necessary thereof.

I have been verbally, but unofficially, advised that a detachment of seven or eight hundred soldiers, from Camp Floyd, are now en route to this neighborhood, under the command of Major GARNETT R. PAUL, of the Seventh Infantry.

I herewith inclose extracts from my instructions, as Governor of Utah Territory, bearing date July 30, 1857 (a copy of which is in your office.) From a perusal of these extracts you will perceive the reason and necessity of this communication.

I therefore respectfully suggest that you will promptly order the officer in command of the detachment now encamped at the Court-house, to occupy a position outside of the wall of the village. Also, to order Major PAUL, with his command, to assume such a position as will relieve the inhabitants from the influence of a military encampment in their vicinity.

It is with pleasure that I announce to you that, after careful observation, I am satisfied that the presence of the military force in this vicinity is unnecessary; and, for this and other reasons I desire to impress upon you the propriety of the immediate disposition of the troops as above indicated.

Should I be deceived in the opinion now expressed in regard to the peaceful disposition of the inhabitants, you may be assured, sir, that I will take prompt measures for securing the services of the military, if necessary, to act as a posse comitatus, where and whenever required.

I have the honor to remain, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

A. CUMMING,
Governor of Utah Territory.

To General A. S. JOHNSTON, Colonel Second Cavalry, Commanding Department of Utah, Camp Floyd, Utah Territory.

Head-quarters Department of Utah,
Camp Floyd, U. T., March 24, 1859.
[Official] F. J. PORTER,
Assistant Adjutant General.

Gen. Johnston to Gov. Cumming.

HEAD QUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF UTAH,
CAMP FLOYD, U. T., March 22, 1859.

To his Excellency A. Cumming, Governor of Utah, Provo City, U. T.:

SIR: I have just received your Excellency's letter, dated 20 instant.

The company of the 10th Infantry, mentioned in your letter, was designated by my order "to take charge of certain persons who had been arrested and held for trial before the United States District Court," at the request of the Hon. J. CRADLEBAUGH, United States District Judge for Utah. There being no jail in this District, nor any means provided for the subsistence of the prisoners, as represented by his Honor the Judge, a refusal on my part would have rendered it impracticable to bring these culprits to trial; and the Judge would have had no alternative but to turn them loose. In my judgment there was a necessity for the aid which the Judge officially solicited and the force was accordingly furnished, and instructions given in reference to the special service to be rendered, which require from Captain HETH, the officer in command, to take all proper measures for the security of the prisoners, and to deliver them over to the Court, as called for, under the directions of the Judge.

Anxious in the performance of every duty in aid of the executive or judicial authority of the Territory, to give the people not a shadow of cause of complaint, Capt. HETH was directed to encamp without the limits of the town of Provo, where the Court is held; but it appeared, subsequently, that the limits of this town are very great, extending several miles away from where any business is transacted. Capt. HETH, at the suggestion of the Judge, seeing that to comply literally with his order would prevent him, on account of the distance, rendering the aid expected of him, encamped on a lot of ground (which was approved by me) the house on which had been rented for a Court-house, for the use of the United States Government.

From the tenor of Capt. HETH's report, which had the concurrence of the United States District Judge, I thought it expedient to dispatch an additional force under Major PAUL, as, in consequence of the arrest of the Mayor of Provo, and the intention to arrest the Bishop of Springville, there was an excitement among disaffected persons which, with the small force under Capt. HETH, might lead to collision with the troops, which is equally to be avoided, if possible, and deprecated, and which the presence of a strong force would, no doubt, prevent.

I have been thus lengthy and circumstantial in presenting this narrative, that your Excellency may see how improper it would be in me to change the position, at your request, of a body of troops, posted for a special service, with no instructions beyond the security of the prisoners in charge. Under the direction of a proper representative of a coördinate branch of the Territorial Government, with whose requisition, concurrently with your own, I am instructed by the General-in-Chief to comply, by furnishing any portion of the force under my command that may be needed, and then while acting in their civil capacity—that is, as a posse—in aid of the execution of the law, or in aid of their administration, to go according to the direction of the civil officers upon whose call they were ordered out, or under whose directions they, for the time being, may be acting.

Although your Excellency has a copy of my instructions, it is presumed that you have them not with you. I, therefore, send you an extract from them, that you may see that I but act perfectly in accordance with them, in declining to make any change in the disposition of Captain HETH's Company, or the force under the command of Major PAUL, which was ordered to encamp at Battle Creek, but after words encamped at Timpanogos, until the United States District Judge informs me that he will dispense with them, when Major PAUL will advance to Provo and take charge of the prisoners, if necessary, and return the same day, on his way back to camp.

I beg leave, most respectfully, to suggest that under the circumstances, there would have been a manifest impropriety in Capt. HETH's reporting to you; such an act would be an acknowledgment of military supremacy on your part, which does not exist.

To prevent any misunderstanding hereafter, I desire to say to your Excellency that I am under no obligations whatever to conform to your suggestions with regard to the military dispositions of the troops of this Department, except only when it may be expedient to employ them in their civil capacity as a posse, in which case, should the emergency arise, your requisition for any portion of the troops under my command will be complied with, and they will be instructed to discharge the duty pointed out.

I have only to say that, to secure the military convicts, who were required as witnesses by the United States District-Attorney, it would have been necessary to send a force to Provo with them, whether asked for or not.

There was nothing in the manner of making this movement that could have been construed as an intimidation, or should have caused any apprehension in the midst of a population whose police greatly outnumbers the force sent among them; and I do not, nor do I think that it should be viewed by well-disposed and well-affected citizens, in any other light than a subject of gratulation, that their Government has the ability to bring offenders to justice, and to sustain by its power the administration and majesty of the law.

I acknowledge, also, the receipt of an extract from your instructions, which I have read; they were also shown to me by Colonel CROSMAN, but of which a copy is not in my office.

With great respect, your obedient servant,

(Signed,) A. S. JOHNSTON,
Colonel Second Cavalry, Brevet-Brigadier-General U. S. A., Commanding.

Head-quarters Department of Utah,
Camp Floyd, U. T., March 23, 1859.

Assistant-Adjutant-General.

The Burning of the "St. Nicholas"—Horrible Death of the Captain.

From the St. Louis Democrat,

The steamer Philadelphia, which reached here early yesterday morning, brought several survivors of the St. Nicholas disaster, from whom we have obtained painfully interesting statements. JAMES REED, pilot of the St, Nicholas, says:—"We left Memphis at 4 P. M. last Sunday, and proceeded down the river without stopping either engine until we arrived at the foot of St. Francis Island, about 10 o'clock the same night, at which place the explosion took place. The Captain was the only person with me in the pilot-house at the time. We were both at the wheel and conversing. I remember distinctly of hearing a report like that of a cannon, and instantaneously felt myself moving through the air. When I recovered my senses I found myself down among the boilers. When the steam and smoke cleared away a little I commenced crawling towards the roof; in doing so I came across Captain MCMULLAN lying with his right foot under the hurricane roof, pilot-house, and a lot of other rubbish which had been thrown together in one common mass by the explosion. His right foot and ankle were wedged in tightly by this heavy mass of lumber. He hailed me and I stopped to assist him, at the same time I called the second mate, whom I saw near at hand, to my assistance, and we both tried all the means in our power to release him.

While endeavoring to release the captain, one of the striker engineers came to our assistance, but the three of us failed to extricate him from his awful position. The flames were rapidly encroaching upon our territory, and the heat was becoming intolerable. Captain MCMULLAN begged us to cut his leg off, but we could find no axe nor any other instrument by which to do so, else we would have complied with his wish. We worked at the Captain until the fire drove us away—he begging us all the time to remain by him. We did not leave him until the moment arrived when to remain any longer would have been certain death to all of us, without the possibility of relieving the captain. He was consumed by the flames almost before our eyes. The last words he uttered were: "My God! I shall have to burn up!" When he saw that he would have to burn, he ceased his entreaties for us to remain by him, and bade us seek our own safety. I left Captain MCMULLAN a few minutes before the others did, and succeeded in reaching the ladies' cabin before the fire closed up the way of escape.

During all this time there were a great many people jumping into the river. It was perfectly horrible. I jumped back to the ladies' guard, and got five or six doors, and gave one to each lady. They also had tin life-preservers around them. I told them not to jump overboard until the fire cleared them away—at the same time the fire was rapidly approaching the spot upon which they were standing. The smoke was getting very thick and the air very hot. This party of ladies were five in number. They were all begging me to stay with them, and, when necessity obliged us to jump overboard, to allow them to cling to me. I was telling them that such a course would be impossible, when I saw the yawl of the Susquehanna leave that boat and start toward us. I told them to hold on, and they would be saved by the yawl. I then went around on the other guard, so as to bring the Susquehanna yawl around to the ladies, before it got filled up with men. After waiting a short time, and fearing they wouldn't come, I jumped overboard in order to swim to the yawl, when the wheel-house fell and barely missed hitting me on the head. When I got into the river and had a good chance to look about, I saw the yawl going back to the Susquehanna, as it was about sinking with water, and they wanted something to bail it out. I was unable to swim back to where I left the ladies, and tried to swim around the bow of the boat, in doing which I came across a stick of wood which was of material assistance to me. I soon managed to get around so as to obtain a view of the boat, which I found cleared of all the ladies. They had gone and the guard was all in a blaze. That is the last I saw of them, except one, Mrs. A. KENNEDY, who had jumped overboard and had succeeded in getting hold of a ring-bolt in the hull just aft of the wheel. She held on to this until a skiff took her away, and she was saved. Her shoulder and arms were very badly burnt. Mrs. KENNEDY told me that while she was in that position, she saw all the other women float by her towards the wheel.

The Contemplated Foray in Chihuahua and Sonora.

A Leavenworth correspondent of the St. Louis Republican tells the following:

"It has at last begun to dawn upon the obtuse faculties of the uninitiated, that there is something in the wind here besides Pike's Peak. In short, the goal which no insignificant number of the Spring emigration expect to attain, is a hacienda apiece among the valleys of Sonora, Durango and Chihuahua. The agents of HENNINGSEN, WALKER LOCKRIDGE, et al, have been industriously, though under strict pledges of secresy, plying every man whom they imagined they could win to their cause, as soon as he disembarked, and it is believed their efforts have resulted in considerable success.

It is well-known that WALKER has himself returned to California, whence he made his first disastrous descent upon Sonora. The subsequent expeditions of Count RAOUSSET DE BOULBON and HENRY A. CRABBE met with a still more unfortunate termination, and both the leaders of the filibusters lost their lives. CRABBE's death, in particular, was associated with so much gratuitous cruelty on the part of the Sonorians that it excited a thrill of universal horror and deep-rooted desire for vengeance among the people of California. There is but little question that a call for a powerful expedition, in which the participants expect not only to gain booty but revenge, would be responded to with alacrity and enthusiasm by thousands of hardy adventurers in that State.

LOCKRIDGE has been so industrious in the cause in TEXAS, as to receive the especial attention of Gen. TWIGGS, whose proclamation relative to the passage of bodies of armed colonists into the Territory has been already promulgated. HENNINGSEN, the most popular and talented of the leaders of this movement, is actively engaged in the Southern seaboard States, and the subordinate agents are laboring with effect at the numerous points on the Missouri, where the emigration Westward concentrates. Circumstances have singularly favored the projects of the filibusters, and it is not too much to say that they have the covert sympathies of the Government.

Pike's Peak is then the nucleus of the expedition against which Sonora and the complete organization of the invading force is to be perfected there. The directors of the enterprise have two objects in this: First, they will avoid any inoportune interference from Government officers; and secondly, they expect to find an abundance of material in men among the disappointed and mercurial population which has rushed to the gold region with a legitimate object in view.

The parties in the interest of the movement who were stationed here a short time since, are now in St. Joseph, devoting themselves to the same objects. Every man who departs on his journey West, is amply provided with arms and ammunition. To this extent it is said the agents of the filibusters aid the emigrants; they provide neither transportation nor money.

It is a common subject of remark that every Pike's Peaker looks like a walking arsenal, while his commissariat is generally miserably provided. The mere fact of carrying an innumerable number of weapons would, independent of auxiliary circumstances, not excite suspicion, but it is well known, that the whole extent of the country which the emigrants expect to traverse is under military surveillance, and far more safe than the streets of some of our metropolitan cities.

Smith O'Brien in Detroit.

HIS OPINIONS ON THE CONDITION OF THE IRISH IN AMERICA.

Mr. SMITH O'BRIEN arrived in Detroit on Thursday, from his trip through the Southwest, and had an enthusiastic reception. He was escorted to the Biddle House, where an address of welcome was delivered by Mr. WM. GRAY. In reply, Mr. O'BRIEN spoke briefly of his impressions of the condition of his countrymen in the United States. The Detroit Advertiser gives the following report of his remarks:

"Mr. O'BRIEN commenced by saying that he was very much fatigued by traveling, and did not intend to enter at length into a speech. He was traveling simply as a private gentleman, but could not help responding to the expressions of kindness which had been made. Since his arrival in America, he had traveled over 5,000 miles, and had been in the principal cities, and during his journeys had met multitudes, and everywhere had met with enthusiastic greeting.

He found that all the hard work was done by the Irish; and in the South, where he thought he should find but few of his countrymen as laborers—where the climate was so warm—there was a great many; but it gave him pain to find that, all over the country, he found many of the Irish, who earned from one dollar and a half to two dollars per day, who spent it all for whisky, and intimated that such of them would be better off in their native land earning a shilling per day, and where the whisky was better. He found that everybody who came to America from Ireland had a chance to become independent, and also that he had found many of them in affluent circumstances, and many holding prominent positions, and cited the Mayor of Detroit—an Irishman—as an instance. He thought there should be the kindest feelings between the born-Americans and Americans by adoption. He could see no reason for this kind reception by Irishmen, other than the fact that they loved the land of their birth, and should report to his friends at home that the Irishmen in America were all doing as well as they expected to when they left Ireland. [A voice in the crowd—"Three cheers for Tipperary."] "Yes," responded Mr. O'BRIEN, "and one for all Ireland."

The Southern Press beginning to Estimate Local Public Sentiment.

From the Columbia South Carolinian.

The result of the Echo case, in Charleston, well illustrates the futility of Congressional interposition in the affairs of a Territory, either to establish or exclude Slavery therefrom. We have urged the utter impotency of Congress, or even the combined branches of the Federal Government, to enforce any law against which the local sentiment is arrayed. * * * The very Territories have opened their eyes to the potency of public sentiment, and they too now claim to set aside, and will set aside, any law of Congress purporting to force upon them an institution to which they may be opposed. Whether right or wrong, this they can and will do. Though they possess not the right to exclude it by legal enactment, they have found out the power of local sentiment; and that power they will exercise, and no earthly power can prevent them. If they favor the institution, they will throw the weight of that sentiment in its favor—if they are opposed to it, the power will be thrown accordingly. As the Charleston Mercury says of the Slave-trade cases, so say we of all attempts to force any Federal measure against public sentiment—it will be "idle, expensive and vain." Whether at the North or at the South, in the East or West, show us any where an American community, and we will show a community which may be so influenced that it will cleave to sentiment and sacrifice law. Whether it be a timidity of that clamor which American sentiment creates when opposed, or whether it be the adhesion to individual convictions rising above law, we know not. In either we recognise practical higher-lawism—that rule of action which makes public sentiment "a law unto itself."

Congress may pass fugitive-slave laws, anti-slave-trade laws, territorial slave laws—but they are worth nothing against public sentiment. Perhaps some may say that this is a tendency to anarchy, and should be remedied—that these laws should be enforced. It can only be done by changing our Federal Government, and remodelling it upon a more centralized plan. That is the only remedy. Let those who oppose us assume it, and we shall meet them on it. We shall not be long in demonstrating that the evils which this would generate would be immeasurably greater than those now complained of. If, then, the laws of the Federal Government can be so easily set aside when they conflict with public sentiment, which section will move for disunion? The slave-trade men of the South have achieved their object; what can they complain of? The anti-fugitive-slave-law men of the North have achieved theirs; should they not be satisfied? Neither will dare streng then the Government to attack the other. Thus the two extremes have been tunnelling from opposite sides, and have met on a common platform; and having each accomplished their ends, are deprived of cause for agitation.

Another Billiard Match—Phelan Challenged by Seereiter.

From the Detroit Free Press, April 30.

The friends of the Detroit billiard champion are invincible in their faith, and, so far from being disheartened by their late discomfiture, are on the qui vive for another chance at the New-York man. A letter was yesterday forwarded to New-York, accompanied by a draft for $1 000 as a forfeit, by the terms of which SEEREITER challenges PHELAN to play him another match for the sum of $5,000, within forty, sixty, or ninety days. He agrees to return the courtesy of Mr. PHELAN by meeting him in New-York to play the match, and charges him nothing for the traveling expenses.

PHELAN will probably accept the proposition without delay, and another match may be looked upon as certain. He could hardly do less under the circumstances, as it was expressly stipulated by him that if SEEREITER was victorious there should be a second meeting in New-York, by which PHELAN might retrieve if possible. The disclaimer, which was published by the Tribune in this City, over SEEREITER's signature, is entirely repudiated by him, so that it cannot fairly be brought into the present controversy.

The Methodist Church in Texas and Slavery—Great Excitement.

From the Missouri Christian Advocate.

For months past a storm of persecution and oppression has been gathering over our ministers and their flocks in Texas. In a number of instances the Central Advocate has been suppressed or destroyed by postmasters and their hirelings; our preachers and members variously menaced, and such like. On the 4th of March last a public meeting was held at Millwood, Collin County. At this meeting it was Resolved, That we are oppressed, and will not allow the preachers of said Northern M. E. Church to preach such doctrines, false and spurious philanthropy, in our neighborhood &c.

In addition, a private Committee was appointed, consisting of twenty-five or thirty persons. It was made the duty of this band to dog the Methodist preachers from appointment to appointment, and keep a constant watch upon them, and upon members of the Church and congregations, to report to the President of the Association any information which they might deem of interest relative to the principles or doctrines taught by the ministers and members of the Methodist Episcopal Church.

Thus matters stood when the annual session of the Conference commenced near Bonham, on the 11th of March, which was Friday. During the first day of the session, and a portion of the second day, two reverend gentlemen of the Methodist Episcopal Church South, named DICKSON and PORTER, were present at the session. These, as is pretty well attested, acted the part of reporters. On Saturday, the 13th, a public meeting was held in Bonham, the county town of Fannin County, near which the Conference was in session, at which the following resolutions were adopted.

Resolved—That the Methodist Church has re separated into divisions, North and South—the organization of the Northern branch of that Church in our midst, as a screen behind which to hide the emissaries of a Northern political faction, known as the Abolitionists, is dangerous to our interests, and ought not, therefore, to be tolerated by the people of Texas.

Resolved, That the public denunciation of the institution of slavery, and the public action by a minister of their Church, to the effect that the Northern Methodists designed the extirpation of that institution in our land, heard in our streets this day, was a gross insult to our people, and should be boldly and summarily resented.

The following resolution was presented by B. F. FULLER Esq., which was appended, and made part of the above:

Resolved, That we hereby bind ourselves to coöperate in the future to do all we can to suppress Abolitionism in our midst, and that henceforth we will suffer no public expression of abolition doctrines or sentiments in our streets or county to go unpunished.

A Committee to wait on the Bishop was appointed, and numbered fifty, one of whom was a Presbyterian minister.

The business of the Conference progressed pleasantly until Saturday afternoon. After adjournment, the Bishop and members of the Conference were informed of the meeting in the village, which was represented as large and excited.

At 11 o'clock the Bishop commenced the public service, read his Scripture lessons, sung a hymn and prayed, and the congregation joined in singing a second hymn.

He then commenced giving out his text, when the persons claiming to represent the public meeting of the previous day, crowded into the Church and addressed the Bishop—the spokesman, Judge ROBERTS, making an exciting address to him and the conference, stating the fact of the meeting the day before, and of their appointment to notify the conference of the action of that meeting, and of their determination respecting them.

They were for peace, but they knew their rights, and would have them—peaceably if they could, forcibly if they must. He forewarned them that if they did not comply with the demands of the meeting, blood would be shed. During these remarks, he stated that he was a member of the Church South. After this harangue, he called upon another lawyer to read the resolutions of the meeting.

After the document was read, the Bishop commenced a reply. He stated that in coming to Bonham he had no reason to suppose that his visit would be offensive. He judged the same was true of the brethren of the Conference, for the Conference met there four years previously, and were courteously received and cordially entertained. Consequently, such a visit, for such a purpose, took them by surprise, and they were not prepared for it. He stated he did not see how they could, even if they were disposed, give a categorical answer to the demand made upon them. As to himself, he was there, ex-officio, as a Bishop of the Methodist Episcopal Church. He was sent there to preside at the session of the Conference, and had no authority to answer their demand. The Conference was not in session, and could not speak as a Conference at that time; and if they were in session they had not authority to change the bounds of the Conference. Other parties were interested in the question besides those present. The laity were a party deeply interested. The General Conference alone possessed the authority to change the bounds of the Conference; so he did not see it possible for them to answer their requirements if they were inclined. Further, he thought the time allowed (two hours) unreasonably short. The spokesman inquired what time they wanted. The Bishop replied, "We ought to be allowed some other time than Sunday to consider such a subject." He inquired when they would adjourn.

The Bishop replied, he could not say but they were to have a session on Monday. Those around the spokesman cried "No, no!" vociferously. The spokesman said he was not authorized to make any other proposition, and turned and left.

Bishop JAMES then proceeded with the service, preached a sermon and ordained the deacons. He did not wish to take the whole responsibility of the occasion, and shortened the discourse to give the brethren a little time to reflect before the two hours were up.

After the congregation was dismissed, the few ministers who were present, and a few laymen, remained for consultation. The Bishop said to them, as he did not expect to remain in Texas to share the consequences, he did not feel it proper to advise their action in this case—they must act as they judge proper.

After a little informal consultation, the brethren agreed to send two of their number to say to the spokesman of the meeting that they would consult their quarterly conferences on the question, and until they had the opportunity of doing so, would refrain from preaching.

When this communication was made to him, they dispersed.

Monday morning conference met according to adjournment, and quietly and deliberately finished its business, united in devotions, and adjourned sine die.

The mass meeting of those interested in the notion of driving out the Methodists (Northern Church,) was held to hear the report of the committee that had waited upon the conference. The facts as stated above, were related to the meeting, and the anti-slavery resolutions passed by Methodist conferences in the Northern States were read, and the Methodists in the Southern States held responsible for them.

RAILROAD ACCIDENT.—A young musician, about 10 years of age, who, with his brother was amusing the passengers on the Philadelphia, Wilmington and Baltimore Railroad, about 9 o'clock last night, in passing from one car to another, fell between them and was dreadfully mangled. The train was stopped, and he was taken aboard, but he died in about ten minutes afterwards. His right leg and arm were severed from his body. He belonged in Philadelphia.

THAT'S THE STYLE OF THING.—Yes, we know all about it. It does seem difficult to get a really handsome hat. You needn't tell us that you've been all over New-York in a vain search for one; we've heard that story before. You didn't go to the right place. How could you have been so forgetful as not to think of KNOX, No. 212 Broadway? Take our advice—go there, and you can get a hat that can't be matched by any other hatter in the world. There's only one hatter can equal KNOX, and that is KNOX himself.

WEDNESDAY, May 4—P. M.

The official returns of the Foreign Trade at the port of New-York for the month of April were completed at the Custom-house Tuesday afternoon. The Import entries of Foreign Merchandise for the month were:

In Dutiable Goods, consumption direct	$15,595,741
Dutiable Goods, warehoused	3,754,895
Free Goods	2,802,542
Total entries	$22,153,178
Against April, 1858	10,644,168
Increase this season	$11,509,010

There was also entered, during the month, Foreign Specie to the value of $272,441. The value of Merchandise of the previous importation, withdrawn from the Public Warehouse during the month, is $1,543,551, or $2,211,344 less than the amount which went into Warehouse; so that the value of Imported Merchandise actually marketed during the month is $19,941,834, against $11,699,466 marketed in April, 1858.

The Exports from the port of New-York for the month of April were:

In Domestic Produce	$5,950 921
Foreign Goods re-exported	823,778
Specie	6 259 167
Total	$13,033,866
Against April, 1858:
In Domestic Produce	$5,513,117
Foreign re-exported	586,809
Specie	646,285— 6,746,211
Increase this season	$6,287,655

We subjoin our usual comparison by months, of the Foreign Trade and Specie movements at the port of New-York, beginning with the current Fiscal or Treasury year, July 1, 1858.
